

U.S. SAYS RUSSIA HOLDS ARMEN FROM AT LEAST 2 DOWNED PLANES

Calls for Inquiry—Mentions Reports of Personnel Missing in Baltic, Near Sea of Japan.

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)—The United States has charged that the Soviet Union is holding American airmen from two—possibly more—downed United States planes.

A note from the United States Embassy to the Foreign Ministry called on the Soviet Government to make a thorough investigation. It asked that the United States be informed of progress as soon as possible.

Cited specifically were the crews of a United States Navy Privateer that went down in the Baltic sea area April 8, 1950, and a United States Air Force B-29 lost June 13, 1952, over the Kamchatka area of Siberia.

22 on Both Planes.

The B-29 carried 22 men and the Privateer 10.

The note said the United States had been informed and was "compelled to believe" that some of the crew members from the two planes are being held by the Russians.

"It may well be," the note went on, "that the Soviet government has in its custody members of other United States aircraft, particularly crew members of aircraft engaged on behalf of the United Nations Command side of the military action in Korea since 1950."

The note explained that the United States for some time has received information from persons freed from Soviet imprisonment that they had "conversed with, seen or heard reports" concerning American airmen "in actual detention in the Soviet Union."

"The reports have now become so persistent and detailed, and so credible that, although the United States Government is not able to identify by name these American nationals now detained by the Soviet Government, it requests the Soviet Government to inform the United States Government in detail concerning each American military person who has been detained in the Soviet Union at any time since Jan. 1, 1949, or whom the United States Government has not heretofore been informed."

International Law.

It said international law and practice obligate the Soviet Union to inform the United States of any American nationals in Soviet custody or to permit such nationals to communicate with United States authorities.

The note said at least one airman believed to be from the Navy Privateer was reported seen at a camp near Tashkent, in eastern Siberia, and at a collective farm in that area in 1950 and 1953.

Reports have been received, the note continued, that as many as eight Americans, also believed to be members of the Privateer crew, had been seen in the Vorkuta area in September 1950.

Referring to the B-29, the note said an officer believed to have been a member of its crew was reported seen in October 1953 in a hospital at Narynburg, north of Magadan near the crossing of the Kolyma river.

List of Personnel.

The 10 crew members aboard the Navy plane were listed as: Lt. John Henry Fette, Connellville, Pa.; Lt. Howard Williams, Escondido, Calif.; Lt. (jg) Robert Duward Reynolds, Danville, N. Y.; Ensign Tom Lee Burgess, Oswatimie, Kan.; Technician 3C Edward Joseph Purcell, Southwestville, N. J.; Aviation Machinist Mate 1C Joe Henry Danens Jr., Cutbank, Mont.; Aviation Electronics Mate 1C Frank Lloyd Beckman, Newport, Ky.; Aviation Electronics Mate 3C Joseph Norris Rinnier Jr., Philadelphia; Aviation Electronics Mate 3C Joseph J. Bourassa, Linwood, Mich.; Aviation Machinist Mate 1C Jack William Thomas, Stillwater, Okla.

Those aboard the B-29 were listed as:

EGYPT INVITES WESTERN HELP ON ASWAN DAM

Ambassador to U.S. Seeks to Speed Negotiations on Financial Agreement.

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Egyptian Ambassador Ahmed Hussein returned from Cairo today with word that Egypt definitely desires Western help in building the proposed Aswan dam on the Nile river.

He said he wants to speed negotiations on a financial agreement, and will seek an early conference with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

"All the decisions now are up to Washington and London," Hussein said. "We have decided what we wish to do, to take assistance from the West. It now depends on them."

Egypt has been negotiating with the British Government, the United States Government and the World Bank. Meanwhile there has been increasing criticism of President Gamal Abdel Nasser here on the ground that he was being excessively friendly with the Soviet Union and was unnecessarily aggressive in pressing the Arab quarrel with Israel.

Yesterday it was disclosed the Senate Appropriations Committee had directed that the Eisenhower Administration check back with the committee before making any new commitments on the use of foreign aid funds for the dam.

(The New York Times said Dulles already had informed the committee that he did not propose to use foreign aid funds for such a purpose.)

Hussein made two comments about issues which have been reported involved in the Aswan controversy:

1. He insisted that Egypt was not holding out for a long-term United States commitment to help finance the project. He said this question had not been raised since the early days of negotiations more than six months ago. American officials have regarded it as a major issue, and Hussein's attitude indicated that on this point Egypt may have made a concession.

2. He said the Egyptian government may have decided to get an agreement with the government of the Sudan (waters trapped by the dam would back up in Sudan territory) because the World Bank thought it was desirable. He added that Egypt wants a settlement with the Western powers so that work can be started as soon as the Sudan pact is signed.

The proposed great dam would cost $1,300,000,000. Under the Western financing proposal, the World Bank would supply $200,000,000 as a loan. The United States and Britain together would grant another

M'KEON DEFENSE TO GET RESULTS OF MARINE POLL

It is not a rule of law—where a man must be tried in a vacuum."

Sevier got his law degree from Washington University in St. Louis in 1948. He is now executive officer of the Second Tank Battalion, Second Marine Division at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

McKeon's plea of not guilty to the charges of involuntary manslaughter and oppression of recruits was formally entered by Berman. On the lesser charges of drinking, Berman said, "The accused stands mute."

The charges against McKeon grew out of a fatal forced march on the night of April 8. He led 74 recruits, into five weeks in the Marines, into a tide-swept flat "to teach them discipline." Only 68 returned alive.

Berman told reporters that he was writing all former Marines whose addresses could be obtained and who have been discharged from Parris Island since Jan. 1. The letter reads in part:

"We believe that it was not an unusual practice to train troops in discipline and to improve morale by such occasional night exercises. 'If you have ever had such an experience or have seen it occur at Parris Island, and you want to see justice done and to assist in the defense of this worthy man, please or wire collect immediately to defense counsel in Parris Island.'"

RUSSIA HALVES OCCUPATION LEVY IN EAST GERMANY

BERLIN, July 17 (UP)—The Soviet Union today cut its East German occupation costs in half and promised to ship East Germany "several billion marks worth of goods."

The Soviet economic aid to Communist East Germany was disclosed in a joint declaration released after a two-day conference between East Germany and Soviet leaders in Moscow.

The East German radio said the Soviets agreed to cut 50 per cent of the 1,600,000,000 marks ($300,976,000) levied on East Germany to maintain Soviet occupation troops.

In addition, the radio said, the Soviets will deliver goods to East Germany.

$200,000,000. This would get the project started.

There have been reports of spectacular Russian offers of aid to Nasser but Hussein said "we wish to carry out this scheme with the help of the International Bank and the American and British governments."

POLISH PROTEST ON REPORTED U.S. AIR VIOLATIONS

Envoy Unable to Explain Identification of Jets at High Altitudes.

The New York Times News Service, (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 17—Poland protested yesterday against alleged flights over Polish territory by United States aircraft in late June or early July.

In an apparent threat to shoot down such planes in future, the Communist Polish Government said that if such flights continued "the responsibility for any consequences would rest with the United States Government." It demanded that the flights be stopped and that those responsible be punished.

The protest was delivered orally by Polish Ambassador Romuald Spasowski, who asked to see Deputy Under Secretary Robert Murphy.

Jets Mentioned.

State Department press officer Lincoln White reported later that the Polish ambassador had said some of the planes were "jets flying at high altitudes" that were mentioned in the Soviet note of protest July 10.

Murphy, according to White's account, asked how, considering that jets flying at high altitudes were allegedly involved, it had been determined that these flights were by American planes. Were they seen? How were they identified? he asked.

White said the Ambassador replied that all he knew was what his government had instructed him to say. In reply to the Soviet protest Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said last week that he knew nothing of such flights. The Defense Department vigorously denied that United States aircraft had flown over Russia.

The Polish Embassy said that Spasowski had cited "quite many" violations and had "stressed that the number of incidents demonstrates that this was an organized action."

Polish Air Space.

Among the flights, it reported, were the following: "On June 20 at 7:38 a.m. entered Polish air space at Zgorzelec and flew along the route Lublin, Przeworsk, Krakow, Walbrzych, and at 9:15 left Polish air space in the direction of Czechoslovakia."

"On July 10 at 6 p.m. a plane entered from the direction of Gubin and flew over Poznan, Czetochowa and Przemysl, leaving into air space of the Soviet Union at 7:00."

HOUSE PASSES REVISED BILL ON MILITARY WORKS

Two Provisions That Brought Veto Are Eliminated From Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The House today passed a $2,138,886,000 military construction bill stripped of provisions which drew a presidential veto yesterday. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.), Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Senate "will be a bit more deliberate."

In a carefully-worded statement, Russell said President Eisenhower "has heretofore approved at least two bills containing similar provisions to those he found so objectionable in the military construction bill as to cause him to veto the measure."

Lends Credence to Rumors.

"This," Russell said, "can but lend credence to the many rumors that the executive branch of the Government is planning drastic reductions in our military strength as soon as the Congress leaves Washington. 'It is, of course, obvious that if these drastic reductions are to be imposed it would be a waste of money to build facilities for forces of our present strength.'"

The House action was taken by unanimous consent with only about 100 members on the floor. It came shortly after the Armed Services Committee had approved a measure without two provisions objected to by the President. These would have required the Defense Department to get approval of the Senate and House Armed Services Committees before going ahead with contracts for Talos missile sites and for construction of Government-insured housing for service men's families.

Identical But for 2 Parts.

Except for eliminating these two provisions, the new bill was identical to the one vetoed. It authorizes construction of hundreds of projects at military bases in the United States and abroad.

Chairman Carl Vinson (Dem.), Georgia, of the Armed Services Committee, told the House the committee would draft a bill giving Congress "some supervision" over the program.

The President objected that

Sobeloff Confirmed by Senate As Judge After Year's Delay

Vote Is 64 to 19 to OK Him for Appeals Court — Southerners Opposed Him.

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Senate last night, after hours of vigorous debate, confirmed President Eisenhower's nomination of Simon E. Sobeloff to be a judge of the fourth Federal Circuit Court of Appeals.

The roll call vote, overcoming Southern opposition which had blocked the appointment for a year, was 64-19.

The fourth circuit court covers Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the Carolinas. Sobeloff is now Solicitor General in the Justice Department, handling Government cases before the Supreme Court. He is a former chief judge of the Maryland court of appeals.

Opposition to his nomination was based principally on the contention of a group of Southern Senators that Sobeloff is prejudiced against the South on the school segregation issue.

The vote on confirmation came after Senator James O. Eastland (Dem.), Mississippi, had denounced Sobeloff as "an extreme left-winger."

"He is right on the borderline of the Red philosophy, and that is the kindest thing that can be said about him," the Mississippi Senator said.

A last ditch move by Senator Olin D. Johnston (Dem.), South Carolina, to kill the nomination by sending it back to the Senate Judiciary Committee, which Eastland heads, was defeated by a 63-to-20 roll call vote.

President Eisenhower first submitted the nomination on July 14, 1955, but Congress adjourned the following month, with the nomination bottled in the Judiciary Committee.

The President renominated him last Jan. 12, and the Judiciary Committee finally approved on June 29.

Thirty-five Republicans and 29 Democrats voted to confirm Sobeloff. Fifteen Democrats and four Republicans voted "no."

The four Republicans were Senators William E. Jenner, Indiana; Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin; Herman Welker, Idaho, and John J. Williams, Delaware.

The Senate took out provision for the Talos sites, he said, but House conferees insisted on restoring it "so that the services could move expeditiously if it were decided to push Talos."

When this part of the bill was restored, the provision giving the committees a second look was put in.

REDS HOLDING 323 POLES FOR POZNAN REVOLT

Total Includes Those Accused of Looting — Death Toll Increased to 53.

VIENNA, July 17 (AP)—Warsaw authorities said today Communist Poland has 323 persons under investigation in the Poznan workers' revolt. Prosecutor General Marian Rybicki reported the death toll of the June 28 uprising, originally 48, has increased to 53.

Western diplomats have estimated, on the basis of reports from travelers, that from 200 to 1000 persons were killed.

The Austrian press agency quoted Rybicki as saying in an interview transmitted by the official Polish news agency PAP that 323 would be tried on charges of making armed attacks on public buildings and authorities, that 64 persons were held for looting and 33 under arrest were convicted released by the rioters.

On a telephone check from Vienna, Warsaw sources said the 323 included the alleged looters and convicts and that not all were yet definitely charged.

"So far it has been impossible to determine who opened fire first," the report said.

No date was given for the trials, but Rybicki said they would be held either before the Poznan city district court or the provincial court of Poznan province, depending on the seriousness of the charge.

There was no indication that the maximum penalties might be the death sentence for 33 other persons under arrest were prison inmates released by the rioters.

The prosecutor said nine of the dead were soldiers or police, that no women were killed and that the younger victims was a 13-year-old boy. This statement was designed to counter travelers' reports that a number of women and children were shot down.

The Vienna Catholic news service Kathpress said, meanwhile, that either priests had been sentenced to prison for alleged participation in the uprising.

LAGLEDE, UNION AGREE ON 'RISER' ISSUE, BELIEVED NEAR WAGE PACT

Negotiators Accept Lawyer's Proposal—Pay Rate, Some Working Conditions Still Unsettled.

Final agreement may be reached today on a new contract between Laclede Gas Co. and its employees, William Wynn, international representative of the employees' union, told the Post-Dispatch today.

Wynn said company and union negotiators yesterday orally accepted a proposed solution to the "riser" connection issue, which has been the principal controversy in the dispute and led to a 13-day strike by the 2200 union members. The strike ended last Saturday.

Wages Still Unsettled. This agreement still must be accepted in writing by the two negotiating teams, Wynn said. He added that the two sides were still apart on the question of wages and that some issues involving working conditions remain to be settled.

A union proposal which narrowed differences over wages was submitted today when negotiations were resumed at the old federal building, Eighth and Olive streets. Previously, the company had offered a 5 1/2 per cent wage increase and the union had held out for a 6 per cent rise.

Wynn declined to give details of the solution to the "riser" connection problem, which was proposed by company and union attorneys.

The company originally wanted the work of making the "riser" connections of gas lines turned over to private contractors. The union's position was that the installations should continue to be performed by company employees.

Donnelly, Dalton Confer. Gov. Phil M. Donnelly and Attorney General John M. Dalton are scheduled to meet in Jefferson City tomorrow to discuss filing additional suits seeking financial penalties against the three locals of the union, the AFL-CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers.

Similar suits, asking for a total of $35,000 in penalties from the locals and union officers, were filed by the state July 7, two days after state seizure of the utility under the King-Thompson Act.

It has been indicated that the state will not end its technical operation of the company until after a new contract has been signed.

Service has been restored to almost all of the estimated 20,000 customers in St. Louis and St. Louis county who were without gas when the strike ended, Laclede officials said.

They added, however, that service has been interrupted to about 2000 customers in the city since it was restored over the weekend. This was caused by more water seeping into gas mains, they said, explaining that not all points at which water entered the mains have been found.

The strikers, who walked out July 1, returned in compliance with a circuit court injunction which upheld for the first time the constitutionality of the King-Thompson Act.

PATROL CAR, AUTO COLLIDE; TWO POLICEMEN INJURED

Two policemen were injured today when their patrol car collided with an automobile driven by Mrs. Alvina M. Lee at the corner of Tenth street and Clark avenue.

Sgt. James Horn, 1539 Switzer avenue, and Cpl. Harry Abelen, 5816 Lisette avenue, were taken to City Hospital for treatment of back injuries.

Mrs. Lee, of 6226 Alamo avenue, was booked suspected of careless driving and destruction of city property. Her car stopped at the intersection while the police car, with Abelen at the wheel, went out of control and struck a parking meter. There is no stop sign at the intersection.

Ringling's 'Biggest Show on Earth' Closes as Era of American Circus Under Canvas Reaches Its End

Final Performance Seen by 10,000—1957 Presentation to Be in Arenas Only.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 17 (AP)—Roustabouts pulled down for the last time today the mammoth tent of Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey Circus, ending an era in American entertainment.

"The greatest show on earth" closed its road tour in a blaze of glory last night at nearby Heidelberg. Every performer seemed to put a little extra into his act for the capacity crowd of some 10,000.

After the crowd melted away, performers and workers packed belongings and gear, and the circus headed for winter quarters at Sarasota, Fla., in its gaily colored railroad cars.

John Ringling North, board chairman and president of the circus, announced the closing of the 1956 season shortly before the afternoon show.

"The tented circus as it now exists is, in my opinion, a thing of the past," North said.

He promised the eighty-seventh presentation of the circus will open as usual next year April 3 at Madison Square Garden in New York and will play the 1957 season in other air conditioned arenas all over the United States.

TV Cut Attendance. Labor troubles, bad weather, rising costs and other factors such as television, which cut into attendance, put an end to the tent show.

Similar problems caused the closing earlier this year of two other circuses—Clyde Beatty and King Bros. However, a group of men formerly associated with Ringling Bros. Barnum & Bailey has purchased the Clyde Beatty Circus and plans to reopen it Aug. 30 in Albuquerque, N.M.

If the plan materializes, it will be the last big traveling road circus in America.

North could not be reached for comment and nobody else in authority with the circus would say what will become of the 800 to 1000 persons on the payroll.

Miss Pinito del Oro, a headline artist from Spain, said, "There are a lot of people with the circus from Europe. I don't

'OLD JULIUS' GETS ORDERS TO MARCH TO ARGONNE DRIVE

"Old Julius" got his marching orders today from his supreme commander, Building Commissioner Robert Keeley of East St. Louis. The dauntless Union infantryman, a statue that has stood for years in City Hall Park, will take up a new position on Argonne drive.

Keeley said the new site in Jones Park was the right place for "Old Julius," inasmuch as Argonne drive was dedicated to the city's heroes of all wars, and was the scene of annual services on Memorial Day.

figure in forage cap and long cape, rifle at parade rest, had to be moved because the park and the present City Hall site are to become a parking lot. The city administration is moving to a new building.

When it first was announced that "Old Julius" would be a casualty to progress, veterans' groups and friends of the Grand Army of the Republic set up a withering fire. Since then the battle has died down. Keeley said he thought there would be no more shooting.

ANIMAL SOCIETY SEEKS HOMES FOR 35 CHINCHILLAS

The Animal Protective Association of Missouri took on the appearance of a violently agitated fur wholesale house today after association agents picked up a truckload of 35 chinchillas.

The officers, accustomed to handling less exalted creatures like mutts and stray cats, took on the job of placing the chinchillas as pets from the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Brunetti Jr., Telegraph road, Mehlville.

Mrs. Brunetti explained that her husband got a few chinchillas a year ago from an acquaintance and began raising them in the basement as a hobby. The chinchillas grew in number so fast the Brunettis decided to give them up before matters got out of hand and they had to let the fur fly.

STUDENT OF YOUTH DELINQUENCY IS HELD IN CRASH

Fred Stille, who told police he has been making an extensive study of juvenile delinquency for a college thesis, was arrested today after he drove a jeep into a Lemay tavern and then left the accident scene.

The jeep caused damage estimated to $100 to the tavern at 200 West Ripa avenue. Shingles were loosened and the door was knocked off its hinges.

Stille, 32 years old, said he had been taking college courses for 12 years. He is writing the thesis on delinquency in order to obtain a master's degree, he said.

Stille, who said he was employed now as a clerk, lives in the 1900 block of Morrison avenue. He was charged in a warrant with careless and reckless driving. His companions were released.

know how they'll get enough money to get back home."

Picketing by unions began with the opening show at Madison Square Garden and continued at every performance. Some of the leading artists, including famed sad-faced clown Emmet Kelly, left the show.

Two Unions Involved. A big part of the circus's dispute was with American Guild of Variety Artists, a union of entertainers. The Teamsters' Union also was involved in a struggle for recognition.

In New York, Jackie Bright, national administrative secretary of AGVA, said, "We regret that Ringling Brothers has closed, but we are sure it is not due to the activity of AGVA or of the Teamsters' Union."

"We feel that the trouble with the circus has been that North lost faith with the public," Bright said. "He did not revitalize the circus as it should be, but developed a glorified night club routine."

"A night club show, with a girly type review with girls in can-can costumes and feathers, is not for children, and it was no longer a circus."

Started in 1884. The Ringling circus had its start as a tiny wagon show in 1884. It grew steadily, and combined with Barnum & Bailey in 1919 to become the largest circus in the world.

A John Ringling, last of the five founding brothers, died in 1936 and the circus soon began

U.S. AGENTS FIND WORTMAN WHISKY UP TO STANDARD

Seven agents of the Alcohol Tax Unit of the United States Treasury Department who made tests on the contents of about 60 open liquor bottles at Hoodlum Frank (Buster) Wortman's Paddock Tavern in East St. Louis early yesterday found that the whisky met legal requirements.

The liquor was studied to determine whether it was the proof indicated on each label or whether it had been mixed with inferior brands or had been watered.

The agents also are examining records of the Paddock to determine whether liquor sold there was bought from legitimate sources by the gang leader's associates.

An agent of the audit division of the Treasury Department reported earlier this month that he was struck and orally abused when he went to the Paddock on a routine investigation.

choose: Bulgarian vs. New York love

You'll be able to decide whether the Bulgarian or the New York Catskill Mountain style of love is better, this week and next at Municipal Opera. This week's production of Oscar Straus' "The Chocolate Soldier" tells of romance in old Bulgaria, while next week's St. Louis premiere of the Broadway hit "Wish You Were Here" deals with modern love at a Catskill Mountain summer resort. But love, like the glorious music in both brilliant shows, is universal and a wonderful thing no matter where you find it. ### TWELFTH ST. PARKING METER INSTALLATION IS DELAYED

Installation of parking meters on Twelfth boulevard, between Clark and Franklin avenues, will be delayed pending an opinion from the City Counselor's office as to the authority of the Parking Meter Commission to order them installed.

This was decided at a meeting of the commission yesterday at City Hall. The legal opinion was asked by the Board of Aldermen last week to determine if there is any conflict between the ordinance giving the commission authority to install meters and the city's master traffic plan.

BARS STORAGE OF SLOT DEVICES SEIZED IN TOWNS

Deputy Says Illinois Police May Use Jail Only for Those Taken in Rural Raids.

Illinois state police officers were notified today by Chief Deputy Sheriff Clifford Flood of St. Clair county that they would not be permitted in the future to store any slot machines in the county jail if the machines are seized in incorporated areas.

Flood Saturday night refused state police permission to store in the jail two machines which they had seized in a raid at Mascoutah.

The sheriff's office will continue to serve as custodian of any machines which are seized in rural or unincorporated areas, Flood said. But, he added, he regarded the seizing of machines or similar actions by state police as usurpation of the police powers of local officials.

Lt. Walter Sauerwein, commanding officer of the state police French Village headquarters, said the two slot machines were seized in a raid at Ralph Linck's Tavern, 201 East Main street, Mascoutah, and were taken to the county jail for storage until disposition of the case.

For Saturday night, state police had stored seized gambling devices in the county jail. The two machines taken Saturday night are now at French Village.

Linck has posted $1500 bond on a warrant charging him with possessing gambling equipment. The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Edgar C. Grossman in Belleville.

Flood expressed resentment last May 17 after state police officers visited 22 St. Clair county taverns looking for evidence of gambling law violations.

He demanded to know why the state police, which is controlled by a Republican administration, concentrates so much effort in St. Clair and Madison counties, which have Democratic sheriffs and state attorneys.

Capt. Elza Brantley and Lt. Sauerwein, who led the visit to the 22 taverns, refused to comment on Flood's statement.

EX-CONVICT CHARGED IN ROBBERY-BEATING

Federal, State Warrants Issued Against Man Named by Victim.

Federal and state warrants were issued today in East St. Louis and St. Louis against Donald Bussmeyer, of the 2800 block of North Twenty-third street, who has been identified as one of two men who commandeered the automobile of Russell E. Bovier early Saturday and beat and robbed him.

Bussmeyer, 21 years old, a former convict, was charged in a federal warrant issued in East St. Louis by United States Commissioner Vera Fellner with interested transportation of a firearm on which the numbers had been obliterated.

ALDERMEN SEEK NEW OPINIONS ON PARKING GARAGES

The Board of Aldermen's zoning committee will try to obtain information from independent sources this week in its study of pending bills to permit construction of two downtown sites for the construction of city-owned parking garages, Chairman James J. Noonan said today.

Noonan would not discuss the kind of information the committee is seeking, but said he hoped it would be available by Friday, when the group will meet again. Members of the city's Off-Street Parking Commission, which has urged construction of the garages, appeared before the committee in closed session today.

Noonan said the committee wanted to bring the bills before the aldermen for final action before the summer recess, which was originally set for June 29 but has been delayed at the committee's request. One of the proposed garage sites is bounded by Chestnut, Pine and Sixth streets and Broadway. The other is bounded by Eighth and Ninth streets, Delmar boulevard, and Lucas avenue.

COUNTY BUS FIRM ASKS TO REDUCE FARE TO AIRPORT

St. Louis County Transit Co. requested permission today to reduce fares on one line.

The company said it wants to reduce the fare on its bus line from Clayton to Lambert-St. Louis Field because the trip was shortened by the relocation of the airport terminal building.

In a petition filed with the Missouri Public Service Commission at Jefferson City, the company asked permission to reduce the fare from 30 to 25 cents for passengers between the airport and Vinita Park, University City, or Clayton. The new terminal is two miles closer than the old one, the company said.

Lower fares may attract more riders who are employed at manufacturing plants in the airport area, the company added. It asked that an existing fare zone boundary at Brown and Natural Bridge roads be eliminated.

The transit firm also asked for approval of an increase of 25 cents in the cost of weekly student passes for all divisions except Ellisville-Kirkwood. The new pass price of $1.25 would go in effect Sept. 1, if approved.

EX-CONVICT CHARGED IN ROBBERY-BEATING

Federal, State Warrants Issued Against Man Named by Victim.

Federal and state warrants were issued today in East St. Louis and St. Louis against Donald Bussmeyer, of the 2800 block of North Twenty-third street, who has been identified as one of two men who commandeered the automobile of Russell E. Bovier early Saturday and beat and robbed him.

Bussmeyer, 21 years old, a former convict, was charged in a federal warrant issued in East St. Louis by United States Commissioner Vera Fellner with interested transportation of a firearm on which the numbers had been obliterated.

The circuit attorney's office in St. Louis charged him with armed robbery, assault with intent to kill and automobile theft in warrants. A man who was identified by Bovier as Bussmeyer's companion in the robbery, Thomas A. Edwards, of the 3300 block of North Ninth street, also was named in the state warrants.

The two men were arrested a few hours after the robbery in an East St. Louis night club.

The serial numbers had been filed off the .38-caliber revolver which Bussmeyer was carrying when arrested, agents of the Federal Alcohol Tax Unit reported. There were five empty cartridges in the pistol.

Meanwhile, East St. Louis police reported a St. Louisian has identified Bussmeyer as one of two armed men who attempted to force their way into his car early Saturday at North Grand boulevard and Cass avenue, the intersection where Bovier's car was entered by Bussmeyer and Edwards.

He is William Bull, a maintenance man, 1914 Salisbury street. Bull said he was stopped at the intersection for an electric traffic signal about 1:55 a.m. when the two men approached his car. He said Bussmeyer shouted, "Open up or I'll kill you."

Bull told police he sped away before either man could get into his machine. As he drove away Bussmeyer struck the window on the driver's side with his pistol, breaking the glass, Bull said.

Board Suspends 10 Officers, Prepares to Try Lt. Joseph

had no recollection of the morality squad raids and had never taken official notice of the establishment.

Failure to Raid Criticized.
Capt. Buck, commander of the same district from 1949 to 1952, also was criticized for failure to raid the brothel. Two raids were made by the morality squad during the period. Capt. Buck said he was aware of the raids.

Thompson did not recommend disciplinary action against Buck, merely stating that the captain was "subject to disciplinary action, as was Pleitner."

The board took cognizance of Thompson's criticism of police handling of the investigation of Mrs. Lytz's murder, which led to the pay-off investigations, in suspending Lt. Siof.

"Lt. Siof was on duty at the time of the murder of June Lytz (April 21, 1955) and was commanding officer of the district during the time of the investigation. His conduct of the investigation, including searching of the premises, gathering and marking of evidence, etc., were not in keeping with efficient police work, especially in view of the seriousness of the crime, which was an unsolved murder."

Lt. Siof's failure to assign a sergeant to the Lytz murder investigation was criticized by Thompson.

Two Made Investigation.
The investigation was made by Detective Windhorst and Raymond, then special officers. The board said their action relative to gathering and marking of evidence was "subject to criticism, especially in view of the seriousness of the crime under investigation."

Sgt. Lange and Duthier were suspended under a police regulation holding sergeants responsible for law violations in their precincts. Both were in charge of the precinct where Mrs. Lytz operated. Lange for the last 10 years.

Detective Sgt. Ferie was the driver for Capt. Greenspan, one of the officers under indictment for accepting bribes. The board found that on two occasions Ferie transported prostitutes about the city in a police car.

Loss of Pay.
The disciplinary action will mean loss of pay for all the officers punished. Captains earn $506 a month, lieutenants $450, sergeants $420, corporals $390 and patrolmen $375.

The board approved a recommendation by Thompson that all district commanders be required in the future to make reports concerning their knowledge of establishments raided by the morality, gambling or liquor squads.

The board has established the policy of holding commanding officers responsible for all law violations in their districts," the board said. "This recommendation is consistent with and is an extension of that policy."

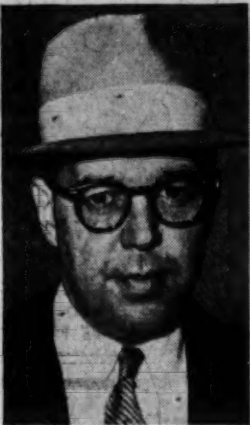

It was decided by the board members to give longer consideration to a recommendation calling for a general departmental transfer of all officers who have been in the same district for two years or longer. The board pointed out high ranking officers are regularly transferred. All captains were shifted in May, 1955. Members of the board expressed the opinion further action should be withheld now "so as not to cast any reflection upon police officers who have carried out their duties in a diligent and efficient manner."

Other Officers Cleared.
The board concurred with Thompson in clearing the names of other officers who had been mentioned in connection with the investigation. Thompson had scrutinized the records of 52 men who have served in the Ninth District since 1944.

All members of the board, including its ex-officio member, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, held an extended meeting yesterday to consider the action to be taken. The meeting began at the Noonday Club and later was shifted to the board room at police headquarters.

Other board members are I. A. Long, president; Fielding Childress, Joseph A. Glynn Jr., and Herman Willer. Their action was concurred in by Chief of Police Jeremiah O'Connell and Assistant Chief Joseph Casey.

In pointing out that its action was based on inefficient police duty and violations of police regulations, the board said all information before it previously had been considered by the circuit attorney's office and the grand jury. The grand jury found no grounds for indictment.

Board's Statement.
"In arriving at the action to be taken on Col. Thompson's findings," the board's statement said, "the board took into consideration the restricted nature of some phases of the investigation. It also weighed the nature of the testimony, the kind of witnesses and the corroboration of their statements."

"The board also took into consideration the special responsibilities of police officers in law enforcement, the efficiency of police work by officers in the areas and matters under investigation."

"We are aware of the seriousness of the charges brought and of the need for continued public confidence in the police department. But we also are concerned with the morale of the men in the department and the need to protect them from unsupported charges by persons whose activities are often outside the law and who have been under constant surveillance over long periods by police."

"We do not intend, however, to protect anyone guilty of law violation or of infractions of police regulations. The confidence of this community rightfully expects high standards of performance from our police officers."

Raided 10 Times in Year.
Police records show Mrs. Lytz's brothel was raided 10 times since 1950. Lt. Joseph led the morality squad on raids in 1950 and 1951 and the morality squad, led at various times by Capt. John Doherty, the late Sgt. Angelo Viscardi and Sgt. Frank Burns, made five raids in 1953, 1954 and 1955.

When Chief of Detectives James Chapman was commander of the Lucas Avenue District in 1952 and 1953, he personally led one raid on the establishment and men under his command raided it twice.

One of the raids by Joseph resulted when Chapman found Mrs. Lytz was operating and turned the information over to the morality squad.

Mrs. Lytz was shot to death on a street in April 1955. Two months later the investigation of police pay-offs began when the Post-Dispatch told Circuit Attorney Dowd about charges made by Pauline Cloin, an employee at the brothel.

The Cloin woman, in attempting to obtain "pinpoint" re-identification of police officers, threatened to expose members of the police department if she was denied the money.

Praises Board's Action.
James W. Connor, operating director of the St. Louis Crime Commission, today commended the police commissioners on their action in the inquiry and said their full report "spells out at least two basic principles of police ethics that should serve as a guide for future police boards."

He said the requirement that the captain of a district must make a full report regarding his knowledge of a raided establishment, if vigorously administered, would "pinpoint responsibility for sustained racket enterprises down to the precinct and beat level."

"Equally important," he said, "is the principle that any police officer who chooses not to cooperate with lawful authority, including that of a grand jury, should be suspended and subject to the filing of charges. This precept is fundamental to the privilege and honor of being a policeman."

but a preliminary examination reveals some discrepancies. After his divorce he was paying a large sum of alimony monthly, leaving not too much for him to live on. He then assumed added financial responsibilities in that he remarried a woman with children. He was, in effect, supporting two households.

"Based on the above facts of his income tax difficulties alone, there is enough to justify Lt. Joseph facing the honorable Board of Police Commissioners on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer."

Adm. Boone in Bonn.
Bonn, July 17 (AP)—Adm. Walter F. Boone, American commander in chief naval forces, Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean, came here today to acquaint himself with West German rearmament plans.

HUNG JURY IN CASE OF MAN ACCUSED OF HITTING OFFICER

A jury in the court of Magistrate Leslie T. Lewis at Clayton was discharged yesterday when it was unable to reach a verdict in the case of Lloyd R. Kaiser, a truck driver of Robertson, who was charged with assaulting Lt. Richard J. Hackmeyer, head of the St. Louis county police gambling and vice squad.

IT MUST BE BETTER

says Robert Brown, 230 N. Boyle, St. Louis. "Roi-Tan are fresh and always mild. That's what I go for in a cigar and Roi-Tan gives it to me!" It stands to reason: Roi-Tan couldn't be America's biggest 10¢ seller without being America's biggest 10¢ buy! Try Roi-Tan today!

ROI-TAN

America's largest-selling 10¢ cigar
PRODUCT OF
The American Tobacco Company

Kaiser last March 16 followed Hackmeyer and three of his officers out of a tavern at Creve Coeur Lake, where the officers reported they had been making a routine inspection, and swung on Hackmeyer, knocking him down four steps. It took all four of the officers to subdue Kaiser, they reported. Kaiser did not deny striking Hackmeyer, but said he did not know the men were police officers. He had two witnesses at the trial who testified the officers did not identify themselves. Hackmeyer testified he had identified himself and presented two corroborating witnesses.

NEHRU IN PARIS FOR DISCUSSIONS ON NORTH AFRICA

He Will Get French Point of View Before Going to See Tito and Nasser.

PARIS, July 17 (AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru arrived here yesterday for quick talks with the French about North Africa before his meeting with Yugoslav President Josip (Tito) Broz and Egyptian President Nasser.

Nehru met for 40 minutes with Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, who said afterward the conversation included the situation in Algeria, Morocco and Tunisia as well as European and East-West problems. Then Nehru conferred with Premier Mollet.

The Prime Minister's Indian Air Force plane was met by a French honor guard on its arrival at Orly airfield from Hamburg, West Germany. Pineau, the military governor of Paris, the prefect of police and other officials greeted Nehru.

Indian sources emphasized there would be no firm decisions at the talks here but they confirmed that North Africa, and particularly Algeria, would be discussed.

Nehru last May proposed a five-point peace program for Algeria, including a cease-fire, French recognition of Algerian right to freedom, and direct negotiations between the French and the rebels. The French, who contend that Algeria is a part of France and can never be independent, brushed the plan aside.

Pineau, who described Nehru last April as "one of the greatest living statesmen I have ever met," seeks to have Nehru understand the French point of view.

BRENTWOOD CITY PAY RISE

A blanket wage increase of 5 per cent for all Brentwood city employees, retroactive to July 1, was approved last night by the municipality's Board of Aldermen. The increase does not apply to elected officials and department heads.

Canadian Swims Channel, DOVER, England, July 17 (UP)—Canadian swimmer Jacques Amyot of Quebec swam the English channel from France to England today, the first person to make the crossing this year. He made the 38-mile swim from Cap Gris Nez in 13 hours, 3 minutes. The record is 10 hours, 49 minutes.

14 FREIGHT CARS DERAILED ON FRISCO RIGHT-OF-WAY

Fourteen cars of a Frisco freight train were derailed yesterday near Moselle, about 40 miles southwest of St. Louis in Franklin county.

No one was injured when the cars left the track after a draw bar connecting two of the cars broke and fell to the track. The cars were part of a 90-car train. They piled up on the steep slopes of the right-of-way about two miles south of the Meramec river.

The Frisco Meteor and the Texas Special, en route to St. Louis from San Antonio, Tex., were derailed through Clinton and Springfield, Mo. The Frisco's Will Rogers, en route to St. Louis from Oklahoma City, was delayed and about 100 passengers were transferred to buses at Sullivan, Mo.

YOUTH DIES OF BURNS; PUT ASHES IN ANTI-FREEZE CAN

Hardin M. Henrickson II, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Henrickson of Poplar Bluff, died at Barnes Hospital yesterday as a result of burns suffered July 5 at a clubhouse on the Black river. He was 15 years old.

The youth was burned after he put cigarette ashes into an anti-freeze can which he thought was empty. The can exploded and he was burned over most of his body. He was alone in the cabin at the time.

WATER RATE RISE
OPPONENTS TO BE HEARD SEPT. 17

State Experts Say County
Utility's Plan Would Double Earnings After Taxes.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 17—
Earnings of the St. Louis County Water Co., after taxes, would be increased more than 200 per cent, if the company's request that it be permitted a rate of return of 6.5 per cent on a new rate base of $63,136, 000 were granted by the Missouri Public Service Commission, it was estimated today by commission staff members.

The company, which is indirectly seeking a rate increase through adoption of a theory of determination of the rate base different from the system used by the commission, introduced testimony during an hour-long hearing today that the company's rate base as of Dec. 31, 1955, should be $63,136,000, instead of $32,728,376. z z z
It is proposed by the company that the rate base be determined on the basis of reproduction cost less depreciation.
The basis upon which the commission now requires determination of the rate base is original cost less depreciation.

Commission records show that the company's net income in 1955, after taxes, was $1,300, 414, or a rate of return of 4.38 per cent on the present base.
Members of the commission staff have estimated that the company's net income, after taxes, at a rate of 6.5 per cent on the $63,136,000 base it contends it is entitled to, would be $4,095,000.

The company's estimate of what it believes the rate base should be was submitted to the commission in testimony by Louis Howson, a consulting engineer of Chicago, following a study of the company properties. No estimate was presented by company witnesses as to what the net income would be, if the company's requests are granted.

W. Victor Weir, president, told the commission yesterday the company needs additional income for maintenance and expansion of facilities.

The hearing was recessed until Sept. 17 when St. Louis county municipalities opposing the increase will be heard.

Herman Barken, associate county counselor who attended today's hearing, said the rate increase will be opposed "vigorously."

JERSEYVILLE (ILL.) PILOT
KILLED IN ALABAMA CRASH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SELMA, Ala., July 17—First Lt. John J. Tracy of Jerseyville, Ill., was killed when his plane crashed near here yesterday while he was on a solo training mission as part of a jet qualification course.

The falling plane dug a large hole in the ground, and exploding fuel set fire to trees and underbrush in the thickly wooded area. Tracy's body was found in an ejection seat several yards from the plane.
Tracy, 30 years old, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Tracy, Jerseyville, his wife and two children.

He was stationed at Craig Air Force Base, near here.

HODGE RESIGNS UNDER FIRE AND GIVES UP RACE

G.O.P. state ticket, accepted the resignations, effective immediately. The Governor technically has no direct control over the state ticket, an elected official.

"I'm Beat" Hodge Says.
Hodge, who has amassed a large fortune through real estate and insurance business operations, was visibly shaken as he left the executive mansion conference.

"I'm beat fellows," he told reporters. Then he added: "But I didn't kill anybody, did I?"
It apparently marked the end of Hodge's aspirations for the Governor's chair in the 1960 elections. He made a try for the nomination in 1952 but stepped aside for Stratton and ran for auditor. Stratton is seeking re-election this year.
Stratton said he planned to fill the unexpired portion of Hodge's term and replace him on the November ticket with separate candidates. The convention delegate vacancy will be filled by the alternate, Representative Leslie Arends.

The resignation halted all money disbursing functions of state government, pending appointment of a successor. This included pay checks to state employees and to recipients of various forms of relief.
Difficulties at Outset.
Yesterday's first grand jury session ran into difficulties at its outset. Edward A. Hintz, who resigned Friday as president of Chicago's Southmoor Bank and Trust Co., was not permitted to testify after he declined Coutrakon's demand that he waive immunity.

Hintz said he was "ready and willing" to testify, but his attorneys asserted he had not "profited financially" by any transactions with the state auditor's office and should not be compelled to sign a waiver.
Such a waiver would permit the state to use a person's statements as evidence in the trial of any charge brought against him.

Coutrakon said many of the state warrants were cashed at Hintz's bank under "questionable circumstances."
The Daily News in its investigation, said most of the state warrants were cashed by persons other than the payees authorized on the warrants.

Side Development.
In a side development yesterday, a Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. examiner told United States Attorney Robert Tieken in Chicago that he had found evidence of misapplication of federally insured funds by an official of the Southmoor bank.

A federal grand jury investigation of Hodge dealings with the Southmoor bank, scheduled to start today in Chicago, was postponed until Thursday.
Frank McGarr, first assistant United States Attorney, said the delay was necessary because the bank's records are in Springfield for use in the state
grand jury inquiry.

Two other prospective witnesses beside Hintz were kept out of the grand jury room after they refused to sign immunity waivers. They were Lloyd Lane, payroll supervisor for Hodge, and Thomas Shanahan, custodian of the state auditor's records warehouse.

The first witness yesterday was Lyman Sorenson of Chicago, chief financial examiner in the auditor's office who signed a waiver.

Chicago Policeman William D. Lydon, whose drapery firm received huge contracts from Hodge, was excused from a scheduled grand jury appearance today. Coutrakon talked with Lydon last night, then issued a new subpoena for him for July 23. Coutrakon said it was obvious Lydon could not give the grand jury worthwhile information until he brought with him the drapery firm's records.

Stevenson for Investigation of Stratton Administration.
CHICAGO, July 17 (UPI)— Adlai Stevenson said today that in view of the Hodge scandal there should be a "top to bottom" investigation of the administration of Republican Gov.
William G. Stratton.

Stevenson said it also "would be interesting to know" where resigned State Auditor Orville Hodge got the money to sponsor broadcasts urging a heavy vote for President Eisenhower in last spring's Illinois primary.
Stratton succeeded Stevenson as Governor in 1952.

Stevenson said it is "hard to believe that no more than one man is involved" in the scandal.

STATION FAILURE
CUTS OFF POWER
FOR 15,000 USERS
Electric service was disrupted in about 15,000 to 20,000 residences and business establishments in Clayton, Richmond Heights and University City for 16 minutes yesterday when a Union Electric Co. transmission station at 6441 Page avenue, Wellston, went out. Two large department stores were among those without power.

The station supplies electricity to five substations in the three suburbs. The failure occurred at 12:31 p.m. Service was restored at 12:47 p.m. by rerouting power from the line in which the failure occurred to another, a company spokesman said.
The department stores were Six, Baer & Fuller's Westroads in Richmond Heights and Famous-Barr Co. in Clayton. Customers on the second and third floors at Famous were asked to take stairways, lighted by emergency battery power, to get to the first floor. There was a minimum of customer confusion at the stores, it was reported.

U.N. ARMS CUT TALKS STALLED BUT WILL GO ON

Study of 'New Proposals' Is Voted—Peruvian Plan Reflects East-West Split.

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 27—The United Nations Disarmament Commission late yesterday adopted a resolution directing its subcommittee to resume closed-door deliberations with emphasis on "new proposals formulated in the course of recent sessions" of the 12-nation agency in its search for a formula for world arms reduction.

It was expected the five-power subcommittee, composed of the United States, Britain, France, Russia and Canada, would convene shortly before the opening of the General Assembly in November. Its last report disclosed little progress toward accord in the negotiation which has remained stalled since it began more than 10 years ago.

The resolution submitted by Peru, although couched in general terms, continued to reflect the seemingly unbridgeable East-West split, even on technicalities. The Soviet Union voted against it while 10 other members voted for its adoption. Yugoslavia abstained for the same reason Russia opposed it.

Opponents' Objection. Their objection was that the document mentioned directly the United States, Britain, France and Canada, although containing the clause noting "new proposals" by others in the meetings. Russia, Yugoslavia and Peru had made proposals, with one from India also introduced by commission, invitation.

In the offending clause, it was set forth that "the resolution introduced by the United Kingdom, Canada, France and the United States, as amended, sets forth the principles upon which an effective program for the regulation and limitation of all arms and armed forces can be based." The four-power paper simply outlined the fundamentals of any safeguarded arms reduction program.

Andrei A. Gromyko said the Peruvian resolution reflected the Western position. If there was real desire for agreement, he said, "let us drop all sly maneuvers and agree on an acceptable wording. He backed the motion of Jules Moeh, France, for a recess to consider a revision. That motion was voted down.

Time Request Denied. Djura Ninic of Yugoslavia asked for time to rephrase the Peruvian resolution which "appeared to be controversial in that it might reflect only one point of view." He abstained from the vote after the requested time was defeated. Moeh urged the commission not to "press for a numerical victory," but voted for the resolution after the recess was denied.

Although not mentioned in the document, Soviet proposals for reduction of conventional armaments, abolition of nuclear weapons and suspension of atomic tests will go to the subcommittee. So will similar Yugoslav suggestions, including those for cuts of military budgets and the imposition of "degrees of control required for enforcement."

Western Allies have agreed in principle with objectives of Soviet arms reduction proposals but insist they should be reached step-by-step, with controls consisting of air and ground inspection to make certain that each stage of the program was in effect. The Kremlin has not consented to imposition of the rigid safeguards stipulated by the West.

Undisputed Clauses. Undisputed in the Peruvian resolution were clauses "welcoming the narrowing of differences on certain aspects of the disarmament problem" and, while noting that difficulties remain, expressing conviction "that a reconciliation of the opposing points of view is both possible and necessary."

The resolution instructs the subcommittee "to study these propositions at the appropriate time, taking account of the principles affirmed therein and striving to increase the area of agreements." It is directed to report conclusions to the commission, composed of members of the 11-nation Security Council and Canada.

SULLIVAN FOR SYMINGTON, NEXT CHOICE IS STEVENSON

United States Senator Stuart Symington, Missouri's favorite son candidate for the Democratic nomination for President and Adlai E. Stevenson are both well qualified for the presidency, James L. Sullivan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, Second District, said last night.

He told a meeting of the Lemay Township Democratic Club, which has endorsed him, that "being from Missouri" he favors Symington, but he would be glad to be on a ticket headed either by the Missouri Senator or Stevenson.

He praised Symington for his efforts to improve the country's guided missile development program, and said Stevenson showed courage in opposing the offshore oil "giveaway" as the 1952 Democratic presidential candidate.

CHINESE REPORTED MOVING 100 HEAVY TANKS INTO TIBET

KALIMPONG, India, July 17 (AP)—Reports from Tibet said today Chinese Communist forces have moved more than 100 heavy tanks to protect the Lhasa area from the threat of an anti-Communist revolt.

Advices to this frontier station said tension within the Tibetan capital was heightened both by news of continued guerrilla fighting against the Chinese in eastern Tibet and by the failure of Peiping representatives to release three resistance party leaders now under detention.

It appeared the tanks, presumably Russia-built, were brought over the mountainous military highway from China by motor transports, then deployed from a concentration point 65 miles north of Lhasa. Travelers from Tibet reported heavy fighting is still in progress between Tibetan irregulars—with men and women from 15 to 65 mobilized in many districts—and Chinese troops.

LIGHTNING STRIKES OLIVETTE HOME, NO ONE IS INJURED

A bolt of lightning struck the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund F. Unger, 7 Homestead Acres, Olivette, early yesterday during a rainstorm. No one was injured.

The bolt passed diagonally through the master bedroom, burning a small hole in each of two outside walls and splintering three boards of redwood siding. A small fire was started in the attic. Unger put this out. Unger and his wife were sleeping in the bedroom at the time. Their three children were sleeping in two other bedrooms, and two of them were undisturbed by the noise.

DRIVER ABDUCTED, ROBBED OF WRIST WATCH, 75 CENTS

Thomas Graves, 5742a Chipewa street, was abducted early today by two young men who forced their way into his automobile at Broadway and Cerre street and made him drive to the foot of Chouteau avenue, where they took his wrist watch and 75 cents, he reported to police.

Graves, 20 years old, said an automobile tut in front of his machine and forced him to stop at the Broadway intersection. There were five young men and a girl in the car, he said, and four of the men got out and ranged themselves on either side. They demanded money and he, said he had none.

After robbing Graves, the assailants drove off in their own car without harming him. He drove home and telephoned police.

High Quarters Outside Pentagon Giving Attention to Radford's Views on U.S. Military Future

Current Thinking Could Be Reversed, but Government Leans to Basic Thesis of Smaller Forces and Greater Reliance on Nuclear Power.

By EDWIN L. DALE JR.
The New York Times News Service
(Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 17. ADM. ARTHUR W. RADFORD'S radical conception of the United States' long-term military future is receiving sympathetic consideration in high quarters of the government outside the Pentagon.

Cautiously but surely, United States policy appears to be moving in the direction of fewer ground forces in Europe. No final decisions have been reached. Current thinking still could be reversed, but the Radford concept of lower forces is not arousing as much alarm in quarters dealing with the over-all foreign policy and security of the country as might be imagined.

Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was disclosed last week to have backed a planning paper urging a reduction in forces—mostly Army—of up to 800,000 by 1960. Radford said subsequently, in effect, that he had not finally made up his mind.

There are three main reasons why the basic Radford thesis—lower conventional forces and greater reliance on nuclear power—is being taken with the utmost seriousness in the Government.

1. The growing realization that a combination of both modern nuclear forces and substantial conventional ground forces would mean future defense budgets so high as to be "astronomical." Basically this is because nuclear forces—the equipment rather than the men—are extremely costly.

2. Dispute Over Costs. There is some dispute about cost figures. The figure of 48 billion dollars has been mentioned as necessary in the fiscal year beginning next July 1 simply to preserve present force levels together with modernization and research. Defense spending is now running at the level of only 35 to 36 billion dollars.

3. There is widespread feeling in the Government that the cost of "combined" forces will run so high as to make impossible any balance in the budget. Since there is no disposition whatever to slow down or cut back on modern nuclear armament, barring a disarmament agreement with the Russians, the only place where cuts can be made is in the conventional forces.

2. The feeling that a reduction of forces in Europe—an inevitable result of a smaller army—would not have nearly the repercussions among the European allies as would have been the case two years ago or even a year ago.

The reason for this feeling, essentially, is that the Europeans are moving in the same direction as Radford. The British are determined to "go nuclear" and to do so without increasing over-all costs. Prime Minister Eden said as much Saturday. Others of the Allies have expressed doubts about the value of ground forces in the nuclear age.

Thinking on Germany.

So far has the new thinking gone in high United States Government circles that the possibility of fewer than 12 divisions as the German contribution to

Democratic Digest Raises Health Issue

Asserts President's Doctors Should Submit to Questioning.

WASHINGTON, July 17 (UP)

THE DEMOCRATIC national committee has demanded that President Eisenhower's doctors submit to news conference questioning again on the state of the President's health. The committee, in its official publication, the Democratic Digest, accused the White House yesterday of conducting a "politically motivated 'snob job' to gloss over the President's condition."

The committee said so many conflicting opinions prevail among physicians about the President's health, the chronic ailment that necessitated an emergency operation June 9, that there is need for "amplification and clarification" on Mr. Eisenhower's case. It said the President's doctors should submit to another news conference because questions have arisen about the optimistic report they gave on Mr. Eisenhower's condition soon after his operation.

The Digest charged Republican leaders with a "much more callous" drive to keep Mr. Eisenhower in the Presidential race after his operation than after his heart attack last September.

"Just Tonic He Needed." It said the doctors had ordered the President to "ease up" because he was working too hard after his coronary attack, but this caused "no slackening" in the Republican political campaign to convince Mr. Eisenhower that a heart stroke at 65 was just the tonic he needed to take on the strains and stresses of another four-year term in the world's toughest job.

After the operation, the article said: "It was clear from the outset that the second Republican drive was much more elaborate—and much more callous—than the first pressure campaign. The men around the President set up the clamor that he was better than ever, that he really wasn't a 'sick man,' and that there was every reason why he should run again, even before he was able to walk or talk."

After calling attention to disputes within the medical profession over the nature of the President's life expectancy, the magazine said the "refusal of the President's doctors to discuss the apparent contradictions has served merely to compound a public confusion and uncertainty that already was large."

A Campaign Issue. The magazine's broadside was generally interpreted as reflecting a decision by party organization leaders to make the President's health a direct issue in the fall campaign.

Most of the candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination have shied away from direct discussion of the President's health. They have said the issue was whether he was well enough to give full time to the Presidency.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty has said Mr. Eisenhower's doctors will not be called together to answer further questions by reporters about the President's condition.

Hagerty was asked whether any full scale news conference would be held by the doctors who attended Mr. Eisenhower at the time of his intestinal ailment.

"I wouldn't know," the press secretary replied. He added, in answer to further questions, that no such conference was planned and he said he did not think any was called for.

Republican congressional leaders who saw him today reported that President Eisenhower looked "much better" and acted with more vigor than he did when he saw them a week ago in Gettysburg, Pa.

Campaign Greetings

New York Gov. AVERELL HARRIMAN (left) shaking hands yesterday with a future voter, 3-year-old JACKIE KEFAUVER (Dem.), Tennessee, greets Jackie's brother, DREW, 9. The rival candidates for the Democratic Presidential nomination are attending a meeting in Asbury Park of New Jersey delegates to the Democratic National convention in a bid for the state's 35 uncommitted nominating votes.

Further questions by reporters about the President's condition.

Hagerty was asked whether any full scale news conference would be held by the doctors who attended Mr. Eisenhower at the time of his intestinal ailment.

"I wouldn't know," the press secretary replied. He added, in answer to further questions, that no such conference was planned and he said he did not think any was called for.

Pravda Warns Satellites to Follow Russia

Cautions Against West—Again Denounces U.S. and Dulles.

MOSCOW, July 17 (AP)

THE Soviet Communist party says the only hope of other Communist countries lies in their unity under the guardianship of the Soviet Union. Pravda, the party newspaper, warned other Red nations in a two-page editorial to keep up their guard against "blandishments, infiltration and provocation" of the West. The party organ stressed repeatedly that the decisions of the Soviet party chiefs were the guiding rules for the satellites.

To Western diplomats, the editorial seemed to point a stern admonition to Communist parties abroad that the relative "liberality" of the post-Stalin era does not extend to basic disagreement or revolt.

Pravda again denounced the United States. It asserted that a new American campaign to undermine the confidence of the satellites in the Soviet Union, spearheaded by "that abid enemy of Communism," (U.S. Secretary of State) Dulles, was directed at certain honest but insufficiently politically tempered people.

"Enemies of the working class harbor a dream of disuniting the Communist parties and weakening their international contacts, primarily with the Communist party of the Soviet Union, of securing the isolation of certain segments of the international labor movements in order to launch an attack upon them," Pravda declared.

"In these (post-Stalin) days," the party organ went on, "when criticism and self-criticism are being developed in Communist countries, the imperialists think their agents will be able to sow their venomous seeds."

"It must not be forgotten there are still opportunistic elements in some places... and people too simple minded and of insufficient political maturity who might fall for the bait of bombastic words about 'national Communism' and 'super-fluity' of international contacts among Communists parties."

Few Bills Eisenhower Wants Due to Pass Before Adjournment

Approval Expected on Aid, Flood Insurance, Executive Pay Increases, Military Survivors Benefits Measures.

By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright 1956, The Post-Dispatch Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 17. CONGRESS is likely to enact before adjournment only a small part of the legislative program requested by President Eisenhower last week. Following is the status of the 14 measures which Senator William F. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, said on July 10 Mr. Eisenhower wanted passed before adjournment.

Foreign Aid—The Senate will act shortly on legislation appropriating funds for the controversial foreign economic and military aid program. The Administration originally asked for an authorization of $4,900,000,000. Congress cut this to a maximum of $4,010,000,000. The House voted to appropriate only $3,600,000,000; the Senate Appropriations Committee boosted this to $4,105,420,000.

Federal Aid for School Construction—This bill was defeated in the House because a desegregation amendment was fixed to it. If, as is unlikely, it should be brought up in the Senate it probably would be killed by a filibuster. The President asked Congressional leaders today to make an effort to revive the bill.

Public Housing—The Administration sought approval of 35,000 units annually for two years. The Senate voted 135,000 a year for about three years, and 15,000 additional units a year for five years for the aged. A companion measure is stalled in the House Rules Committee.

Social Security Expansion—The House has approved broader social security coverage, including expanding disability benefits and lowering the retirement income age for women from 65 to 62. The bill may be voted by the Senate, perhaps this week, although the House version may be watered down.

Civil Rights—The general civil rights bill was being considered by the House today, and is expected to be passed by the end of the week. The outlook is for the measure to be bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee. The legislation would set up a bipartisan commission on civil rights, would provide for a new civil rights division in the Justice Department and would empower the Attorney General to bring civil suits in cases in which persons are deprived of their right to vote.

Customs Simplifications—A highly technical measure passed the House in June 1955. The Senate is scheduled to take it up shortly with chances of passage about 50-50.

Immigration Liberalization—Legislation is pending in Senate and House committees but Administration leaders apparently are not trying very hard to get action. None is anticipated.

Flood Insurance—The idea has wide support but a formula has proved difficult to devise. Legislation has been passed by the Senate, is pending in the House. Chances for passage are good.

Postal Increases—Legislation would increase the rate for first class mail from 3 to 4 cents an ounce and increase charges in other classifications. A bill has passed the House; the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee was to begin hearings today. There is strong opposition in the Senate.

Military Survivors Benefits—Legislation has passed both houses and now is in conference; prospects are it will go to the President soon.

Frying Pan-Arkansas Project—This $156,000,000 water development proposal is pending in both houses and is thought to have a reasonable chance of enactment.

Executive Pay Increases—Legislation to hike the salaries of top Government executives has passed the House and has a reasonable chance of passage in the Senate.

Niagara Power Project—The Senate passed legislation authorizing a $440,000,000 development by New York state, in preference to a bill authorizing private development. The Administration favored a plan that probably would have resulted in state development. The bill is pending in the House Rules Committee; it could be passed.

Renegotiation of Government Contracts—Amendments have been passed by the House but have not yet reached the Senate.

ALSOP Military Manpower Theories Are Covering Up Budget Facts

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON. ALL SORTS of theories have been put forward to justify the heavy reductions in the armed forces which have been proposed by Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. But there is hardly an informed man in the Pentagon who has the slightest private doubt that the theories are just so much camouflage for the following facts.

The Eisenhower Administration came to power committed to lower taxes and a balanced budget. Both laudable objectives have been achieved, largely thanks to the "new look" defense policy, which has permitted sharp reductions in previously planned defense levels.

Even the "new look," however, would not have permitted a balanced budget for the current fiscal year if it had not been for an artificial process of "one shot" defense reductions. For the current fiscal year the armed services were told, in effect, to live off their capital in order to permit a balanced budget.

Artificial Spending. But it is not possible to live off capital forever. On the contrary, artificially low defense spending for one fiscal year spells artificially high defense spending for the next. Moreover, certain military hardware—like the B-52 heavy bomber—is reaching the stage where it must be bought and paid for. Thus the Administration's fiscal chickens are suddenly coming home to roost.

The powers that be in the Administration have been shocked by the size of these unwelcome birds. For example, in order to maintain the agreed-upon force levels for the Air Force (which many air officers, like Gen. Curtis LeMay, consider already grossly inadequate) it will be necessary to increase Air Force spending a cool six billion dollars in the next fiscal year.

Similarly, the artificial savings for the other two services must also be made up in the next fiscal year. Preliminary estimates by the services have put the over-all increase in the neighborhood of 12 billion dollars. Final and official estimates must be submitted to Secretary Wilson by Oct. 1.

Upset for Budget.

Any such increase would of course knock the budget for the next fiscal year into a cocked hat. It would also knock into a cocked hat the Administration's budget-balancing boasts, which are counted on heavily as campaign material for this election year.

Wilson has thus ordered that defense estimates for the next fiscal year be held down to about the current level, or at most only a billion or so more. Because the current level is artificial, there is only one way that this can be done, other than by abandoning the 137-wing Air Force program, to which the Administration is absolutely committed.

It can only be done by the kind of sharp reduction in military manpower which Wilson and Radford have been proposing to the dismayed Joint Chiefs. It is well to understand what a cut in manpower of 500,000 to 800,000 men would mean.

It would mean a large scale withdrawal of American forces from Europe, which would drive the last nail into NATO's coffin. In a large sense, it would also mean that the United States had passed the point of no return in total dependence on the Strategic Air Command's ability to deliver hydrogen bombs to enemy targets.

No sensible man disputes that SAC must have the power to

HERE'S HOW THE PLAN WORKS!
YOU ARE ELIGIBLE (no physical exam necessary) to receive up to $3,000 life insurance, fully paid by this bank—at no cost whatever—if you are under 60 years of age. The amount of your life insurance will exactly match the amount of money you have in your Hampton Bank Savings Account up to $3,000. Simply open a savings account of $250 or more at our bank. That's all there is to it. No physical is required, and the insurance remains in effect until you reach age 60. After age 60, you can continue this coverage by converting to ordinary life insurance without physical examination.
YOUR MONEY IS DOUBLED in case of death when your savings account is with Hampton Bank. For example, if your actual cash balance is $3,000, your wife, husband, family or other beneficiary of your own choosing would receive not just your $3,000 deposit, but $6,000! More important, the insurance feature does not affect your savings account interest rates. It is an added benefit, and because it is free, your deposit could earn a return equivalent to 3% (interest rate and cost of insurance combined—based on comparable insurance of age 50).
An INDUCEMENT TO SAVE is the purpose of this special life insurance benefit. The plan is not intended to be a substitute for your present life insurance. It is an added inducement to help you build a cash reserve and estate. There is no penalty for discontinuing the plan. You may deposit and withdraw money at any time. If your account goes below $250, of course, the life insurance terminates. However, upon reaching or exceeding $250, it is reinstated immediately.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

How to Make Enemies

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
 Often I have been told that the United States Government and people always back the "underdog." This may have been true on past occasions, but my people have more than one reason to believe that the statement is no longer true.

My country, Algeria, has been fighting for freedom against the French who, strong as they are, are receiving the material and moral support of the United States.

The French are certainly not the underdog in this case—and all the world knows it—for they themselves boast of the fact that they are crushing the Algerians with half a million fully equipped troops. Yet the United States is aiding France in its fight against the struggle of a rising people to determine their own destiny.

In the military field the American Government is supplying the French forces with arms, including helicopters which are used to hunt the Algerian nationalists in the mountains. According to the French press, the French aircraft carrier, Dixmude, is shuttling between Norfolk, Va., and Algiers with shipments of American planes and helicopters.

And in the United Nations, the United States has consistently rejected the plea of an embattled people for a hearing on their case by the world organization.

This moral and military support of the French colonialist stand can only help to arouse anti-American sentiment in North Africa and the rest of the Afro-Asian countries.

If the French were to succeed in their war of reconquest, the United States military aid, then the American people would stand guilty of enslaving a people who are now paying a heavy toll of lives to achieve their liberty.

But if the French fail, as they surely will, then the United States will only have made a tragic contribution to unnecessary bloodshed suffered by a people who were among the first to recognize the independence of the United States of America.

Why Doesn't the President Lead?

WASHINGTON. WHEN PRESIDENT EISENHOWER reached into Congress and picked Representative Charles W. Halleck of Indiana, second ranking Republican leader in the House of Representatives, to nominate him for a second term at the San Francisco convention next month, he was making a gesture denoting the friendship that has developed between the two.

But this choice was recognized as having also a political purpose of which National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, himself a former member of Congress, who announced it after a conference with the President at Gettysburg, would be fully aware.

It is in the form of a dramatic hand-clasp, for the nation-wide television audience, between the Republican party in Congress and the President, on the eve of another campaign. A charitable comment is that such is certainly needed. This act of conciliation emphasizes the weakness that it presumably is supposed to conceal. That is the repeated failure of a majority of Republican members of House and Senate to follow their President.

Halleck

What the Record Shows.

So graphically is that being illustrated right down toward the wire of President Eisenhower's first four years in the White House—as it was from the very beginning—that Democrats now are seizing this incongruity as a major issue both in this year's presidential and congressional election campaigns.

As for the President, the tack they are taking is that it exhibits a lack of leadership on his part. As for Congress, the Democratic line is that it has been Democrats who have saved the President on numerous issues, both foreign and domestic, and in both the Republican Eighty-third and the Democratic Eighty-fourth Congresses, which is the fact shown by the record. This, they say, demolishes any argument that election of a Republican Congress would help the President.

Not Sufficient Excuse.

Just the day before Chairman Hall announced the selection of Charlie Halleck as the President's nominator, Republicans had cast more votes against the President's foreign aid bill in the House than had Democrats and had cast far fewer for it than had Democrats.

Only a few days before, a majority of Republicans had voted against the school construction bill.

Including Charles W. Halleck! His explanation for his vote was that the bill did not contain the Administration's formula for allocating federal funds to the states.

But, for a seasoned legislator who knows that you can never

'CHOCOLATE SOLDIER' IS BRILLIANT REVIVAL

No Let-Down in Gayety and Exuberance of Municipal Opera Show.

By MYLES STANDISH
I have of course been privileged to see only a small fraction of the numerous productions of Oscar Straus's operetta, "The Chocolate Soldier"—the piece originated about the time I was born—but I feel that there never was a more brilliant one than Municipal Opera put on last night in its eighth revival of the grand old piece.

Everything about it was just right. Bernard Shaw's satire on militarism, with prancing Balkan soldier puppets as the goats, has not only been transferred into an impudent burlesque in the book by Stanislaus Stange (via a couple of Viennese authors, Rudolph Bernauer and Leopold Jacobson), but it is also a satire on the violently agitated emotions of grand opera, and is hence pure comic opera. This may be old-fashioned, but it is top-drawer old-fashioned. And a talented cast, under Producer John Kennedy and Musical Director Edwin McArthur, entered into the spirit of the thing perfectly.

There was never a let-down in the gayety and exuberance of the operetta, which is full of a verve and wit which Mr. Shaw himself could hardly have been ashamed of.

Straus's music, outside of his ringing hit, "My Hero," is gay and sprightly, and yet of such substance that goose bumps can sing it with comic effect. And there were good voices last night—tried and true singers who could project it on a large and sure comic scale, who could do it extravagantly and flamboyantly, yet never overstep the bounds of the comedy which could be kept in focus.

As Nadina, the heroine, Gail Manners sang with a coruscating power and had a beautiful comedy sense. Her "My Hero," one of the most famous arias any soprano could tackle, was done nothing short of gloriously. It was the best feminine voice heard at the opera so far this year. Her blonde beauty and expressiveness all contributed to making her a natural in the role.

As Bursli, the Swiss lieutenant in the Serbian army who was a better lover than a fighter, George Gaynes was light, carefree, with a touch of the sardonic to give his flippancy tang. His bass-baritone, a voice of quality, worked its way carelessly but securely through the music, like Bing Crosby tossing off another hit record. I don't think there's a better first act in comic opera than when the fugitive Bursli comes to hide in Nadina's boudoir and she, her mother and cousin all vie in swooning over him. Muriel O'Malley as the mother, Aurelia Popoff, and Peggy Engel as Mascha, the cousin, contributed nicely to this delightful foolery.

Marylin Green, the eminent Gilbert and Sullivan comedian, played Col. Popoff, usually an object of huffing and puffing burlesque, with a dry and crackling approach. It was a wry type of humor which fitted in excellently with the intelligence of the whole performance. As Lieut. Alexus, the Bulgarian hero by virtue of a horse that insisted on galloping into the teeth of the Serbian cannon, Glenn Burris also was first-rate, giving an impassioned tenor and a mock fervor to the cause of military glory and the subsequent rewards of feminine adulation.

A peasant dance and a third-act opening ball were distinguished by the work of the principals. Christine Mayer and Jacques D'Amboise, Mr. D'Amboise, gifted with a particularly graceful ebullience, did his turns and leaps with a thrust and flourish as if he were propelled on ice skates. The sets by Paul C. McGuire were in his usual good taste.

The opening crowd numbered only 7600, reflecting the low attendance rate this year at the opera, something which will have to pick up soon if this is to be a successful season.

NATHAN SHEVER DAVID SHEVER

Brothers Nathan and David Shever Leaving for Cornerstone Ceremonies Next Week in Beersheba.

Two University City brothers have given $100,000 "in gratitude for the opportunities they have enjoyed" for construction of a community center in the Israeli town of Beersheba.

Nathan Shever, 8360 Cornell avenue, and David Shever, 8237 Balson avenue, were to leave New York by plane today to take part in the cornerstone laying ceremony July 26 for the project their gift will finance.

"We want to share with others the prosperity we have enjoyed," Nathan Shever said yesterday after their donation was announced by the American Fund for Israel. The fund will supervise the project.

Beersheba, with a population of 23,000, is the gateway to the Negev desert.

The center will be of modern architectural design, Mrs. Nathan Shever said. It will include a swimming pool, auditorium, club rooms and other facilities.

"This gift carries out a family tradition," Mrs. Shever said.

"My husband's older brother, Morris, who lives in Detroit, set a family precedent for making a substantial donation for some charitable purpose at the age of 50," she explained.

"It also follows the family pattern because my brother-in-law made a donation for construction of a library near Tel Aviv."

"We went to Israel for the opening of the library about five years ago," Mrs. Shever said. "The need there was so great that my husband was impressed."

Nathan Shever, 57 years old, and his brother, 53, are members of a three-man partnership operating Clean Coverall Supply Co., an industrial laundry at 1316 South Seventh street. The firm was organized when the brothers came here about 16 years ago from Detroit.

The two had come to the United States as teenagers shortly before World War I. They were born in Warsaw, Poland.

Mr. Hyman, 60 years old, died Sunday of a heart ailment at his home, 8 Westfield drive, Creve Coeur. He started with the shoe company 41 years ago in the traffic department, eventually becoming manager of the department and later manager of the export department as well. He was appointed manager of service about 1946.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Hazel Francis Hyman; a daughter, Mrs. Willard H. Duetting of Larchmont, N.Y., and two grandchildren.

BOUNDS E. HAMILTON DIES; ATTORNEY FOR 54 YEARS

Bounds E. Hamilton, a partner in the St. Louis law firm of Walsh, Hamilton and Corcoran, died last night at Missouri Baptist Hospital of complications following an operation eight months ago. Mr. Hamilton, 74 years old, had been an attorney in St. Louis since his graduation in 1902 from the old Benton Law School. He lived at 6928 Chippewa street.

Mr. Hamilton served for two summers as provisional judge of the Court of Criminal Correction. He was president of the Epworth League Union for two years and served for three years as president of the board of stewards of the Scruggs Memorial First Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Hamilton; a daughter, Mrs. Howard M. Guthrie, Lexington, Ky., and a son, Charles Melles Hamilton, St. Louis county.

SECOND-BALLOT DRIVE FOR STEVENSON HERE

Missouri Delegates Urged to Switch After First Vote for Symington.

A drive to win second-ballot votes for Adlai E. Stevenson from Missouri delegates to the Democratic national convention is being conducted by the Stevenson for President Committee of Greater St. Louis. It was learned today.

The committee is sending letters to Stevenson supporters in the St. Louis area, urging them to write Missouri delegates and alternates and to ask them to switch their votes to Stevenson in the national convention, after casting their first-ballot votes for United States Senator Stuart Symington, Missouri's favorite son and "dark horse" candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Enclosed in the letters to the Stevenson supporters is a list of the 76 delegates who will cast Missouri's 38 votes in the Democratic national convention, and the state's 54 alternate delegates.

The letters, signed by Lemmo Skinner Jr., chairman of the St. Louis Stevenson group, points out that the Missouri delegation will swing to support Symington for the nomination. Skinner said Symington is "a very able man who thoroughly deserves the state's favorite son backing."

"But we earnestly hope that, as the pattern of the convention begins to take form, our Missouri delegation will swing to Stevenson to help clinch his nomination by an overwhelming vote on an early ballot," he said.

The Democratic state convention in May instructed the Missouri delegation to support an all-out effort to capture the nomination for Symington. It directed the delegation to stick with Symington until he personally releases them, or until a majority of the delegates decide he no longer has a chance.

The committee's letter cites reasons why Stevenson should be nominated. It said he is the Democrats' "best vote-getter," and that he is "better qualified for the Presidency than any candidate in either party."

Besides serving as chief of staff, Dr. Will has been chief of the surgical service for 15 years and consulting surgeon for five. Dr. Dorsett has been chief of the obstetrical and gynecological services for 20 years, well as associate chief of staff. Chairman Harold D. Carey of the County Council and County Supervisor Luman F. Matthews made the presentations.

The President also announced his intention of appointing a citizen's advisory committee to work with the council. The executive order followed a recent conference, called by the President, of sports and youth leaders on youth fitness.

Plan Your Home Financing Where Your Plans May Be INSURED!

Who will make your monthly payments if you are injured or sick and cannot work?

Who will pay off your mortgage if you die?

The answer is the HOME ASSURANCE PLAN, available as a service in many Savings and Loan Associations.

1. LOAN BALANCE PROTECTION
If you die, your loan is paid in full, leaving the home free and clear for your family.

2. MONTHLY PAYMENT PROTECTION
If you are sick or injured, your monthly loan payments will be paid until you are back on your job, or for as long as two years.

If you are thinking of doing any home financing, get in touch with a Savings and Loan Association which can offer you HOME ASSURANCE. Greater home security will be yours.

THE HOME ASSURANCE PLAN ENABLES HOME OWNERS TO CARRY MUCH NEEDED PROTECTION AT SMALL COST. One Home Assurance client, with a local association, had his Plan only 7 weeks when a need arose. An accident made a bone operation necessary. He was unable to work for 2 months and 27 days but during this time his monthly payments were made for him. He had been back at work only a short time when he became ill and was hospitalized. This time it was 4 months. Again his total monthly payments were made by his Plan. Then the final tragedy occurred—death in an accident. The Plan again took over and paid off the balance of his loan. This client had had Home Assurance for just 16 months.

The Home Assurance Plan is underwritten by

Cards Call Up Pitcher Blaylock and Outfielder Peete to Aid Club

Top Hurler and Hitter In Respective Leagues; Haddix Shuts Out Birds

By Bob Broeg

The Cardinals, a 500 ball club exactly three months after the season opened, sought to strengthen their weakest departments—pitching and the outfield—by turning to their forgotten farm system today to call up the International League's leading hurler and the American Association's No. 1 hitter.

Pitcher Bob Blaylock was purchased from Rochester hours after General Manager Frank Lane announced the acquisition of outfielder Charley Peete from Omaha. Blaylock was obtained for intra-organizational petty cash while Peete was acquired in exchange for Chuck Harmon, Redbird utility player who was an able handyman—except when he had a bat in his hands.

With the left-handed hitting Peete batting .351 and Right-hander Blaylock the possessor of a 9-4 won-and-loss record, plus an outstanding 1.65 earned-run average, Manager Fred Hutchinson said he probably would platoon the outfielder as a part-time regular and give the pitcher an early chance as a starter.

Haddix Beats Birds Again.

"We've got only three players hitting all infielders," Hutchinson said unhappily after last night's game at Busch Stadium, where former teammate Harvey Haddix taunted the Cards a third time in four tries by minimizing the threat of his own singles.

The talented left-hander, who went to Philadelphia in the first of a series of multiple-player trades, walked only one and struck out eight in a 2-0 duel with Willard Schmidt. Even the three hot-hitting infielders to whom Hutchinson referred—Al Dark, Stan Musial and Don Blasingame—were limited to three safeties as Haddix gained his sixth victory in nine decisions for the sixth-place Phillies. The Kitten, who now has given the Cards only nine runs in nearly 35 innings, owns a 3.16 ERA since he was traded. It's better than the efficiency rating of all Redbird pitchers except reliever Jim Konstanty.

The pitching staff, though representative Schmidt pitched well enough to have won last night, could use whatever aid Blaylock might offer. For a club that has had many pitching misfortunes the last several years, the Cardinals found the farm system a lifeline in recent seasons. Stu Miller came up in August of 1952 to give the team a boost. First Brooks Lawrence, then Gordon Jones provided a lift in '54 and Schmidt became the best right-hander on the staff the second half of the 1955 season after his recall last July.

Blaylock's Fine Record. Blaylock, the first farm system player called up by Lane, is only 21 and in his fourth professional year as a pitcher. He's a 6-foot 1-inch, 185-pound native of Muldrow, Okla. At Rochester he appeared in 15 games, 13 of them starts and hurled nine complete contests. In 109 innings he yielded just 71 hits, only 20 earned runs, walked 48 and struck out 92. "He's particularly hot right now," said Bing Devine, Lane's assistant and one of several organization men who have watched Blaylock pitch. He hurled a 2-1 victory at Montreal, then a shutout league-leading Toronto on three hits and fanned 14 last Saturday night.

"The night I saw him he had a control problem, but he really threw hard," Devine said.

Lane expects Peete, though not Del Greco's equal defensively, will be adequate and offer hitting potential. The 5-10, 200-pound outfielder owned 120 hits, including 23 doubles, five triples, 14 homers and batted in 52 runs for Omaha.

Playing for the Association All-Stars last night at Denver, Peete belted a home run with one aboard in the fourth inning, the All-Stars' first hit off the Denver Bears, who won the annual game, 10-8. Peete also got a single.

"We're well aware that our outfield hasn't been up to standard," Lane said. "We're still trying to finish as high as possible this season."

Hutchinson's tentative decision to play two-platoon baseball appeared to be well-founded because the defensively-able Del Greco, while batting a feeble .167 against right-handers, has batted a promising .326 against southpaws.

Combined .329 for infield. The difference is less striking in the other positions. The brutal fact is, the outfielders haven't been striking anything except out. The infield, though Ken Boyer tailed off, has been solid since the June trading deadline deal that brought Dark onto the scene at shortstop and moved Blasingame to second base, where he is more at home.

Musial's move to first base at the same time completed a well-balanced infield.

In the Cardinals' 30 games since those moves the four regular infielders have batted a combined .329 with 14 home runs and 68 RBIs. But the roster's six outfielders, representing a department from which a club ordinarily must expect to get its most punch, have hit a sickly .235 for a month in which they've contributed just five homers and knocked in only 31 runs.

Denver Defeats A.A. All-Stars

DENVER, July 17 (UP)—The Denver Bears proved their right to the American Association's top spot here last night by whipping the loop's All-Stars 10-8.

An all-time record crowd of 19,769, both for an American Association All-Star game and for a baseball game in the Rocky Mountain states, saw the encounter.

Denver, behind the pitching of Jack Urban, took a 2-0 lead going into the fourth inning before the All-Stars got their first run across.

The All-Stars tied up the game twice, 2-2, in the fifth and 5-5 in the seventh, but each time the Bears bounced back, the first time in the sixth inning on a two-run homer by leftfielder Dick Tettelbach, who was chosen the No. 1 player in last year's All-Star game at Minneapolis.

After Tettelbach's homer, the Bears cut loose with four more runs in the seventh that sewed up the game for them.

All-Star Manager Johnny Keane of Omaha used five pitchers and Denver Manager Ralph Houk six.

Bob Martyn led Denver's 13-hit assault with two home runs and a single and scored four of Denver's runs. One of his homers came in the eighth and gave Denver's its tenth run.

It was the sixth time in the 14 years that the American Association All-Star game has been played that a host team has won it.

Outfielder Charley Peete of Omaha, bought by the St. Louis Cardinals, hit a home run and single for the All-Stars. His circuit clout came with one on in the fourth.

Only 350 Fans Attend Benefit Fight Card

BILLINGS, Mont., July 17 (AP)—A fight card billed as a benefit for injured lightweight boxer Bobby Woods of Spokane, Wash., drew only 350 fans last night.

Promoter Mel Diewald said Woods would not "realize one dime for medical expenses." Gate receipts were not announced.

The small crowd saw Jimmy Grow of Boise, Idaho, knock out Ronnie Sanchez of Reno, Nev., in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Both weighed 135.

Woods, a patient in a Billings hospital, recently underwent surgery for an eye injury. He is reported progressing satisfactorily.

Winner for Third Time Against Ex-Mates

HARVEY HADDIX, Phillies' pitcher, tosses the ball that was the final out for the Cardinals in his dressing room after his 2-0 victory at Busch Stadium. His batter, STAN LOPATA, is at left. MARV BLAYLOCK, right, doubled to score the two runs. Haddix himself got two singles. It was his third victory over the Cardinals since he was traded in May. The Cards have beaten him once.

Ex-Redbird Gonzalez in Town, Rates Frisch Over Hornsby

Wanna argue? Outspoken Mike Gonzalez, colorful former coach of the Cardinals, picked Babe Ruth over Ty Cobb as the most outstanding player in baseball history and Frank Frisch over Rogers Hornsby as the Redbirds' ranking second baseman.

Here with his wife and teenage son, the 65-year-old Gonzalez, now a prosperous winter league operator in his native Havana, found himself in a baseball hall session before last night's game at Busch Stadium. The Cuban, whose playing and coaching career in the big leagues extended from 1912 through '46, expressed opinions on the controversial subjects mentioned.

"Hokay," he said in his fractured English, "you take Cobb. Mike take Root"—that's the Babe, all right—"and wing more times. What Cobb do Babe can do except run better? Root run plenty good, anyway. He's a helluva pitcher, good outfielder, throw better than Cobb and hit for power and average. Ceenah, he hit .400 if he don't hit so many home runs. But who want to hit .400 when he can hit 60 home runs a year, 700 in a career?"

But Frisch over Hornsby wouldn't be inconsistent because the Rajah hit for higher average and for more power than the old Flash.

"Naw," Gonzalez was emphatic, shaking his head. "Mike see him both break in. Play here with Cardinals when Hornsby come up in 1915 and room with Frisch when Frank join the Giants in '19. Hokay, Hornsby hit better and harder, a helluva hitter. But Frisch no humpty-dumpty. What you want? Mang hit .330, steal 40 bases, feel like everything, beat you by himself in close ball game. That's Frisch."

"Frisch throw better, cover more ground and catch pop flies. Maybe Hornsby have trouble with pop fly because he never hit any, but, anyway, he have a weakness and Frisch have none. Plays hitters like everything. Smart dummy."

"Sister? Perfect player. Wonderful."

Friend Va. Wehmeier. Bob (11-8) Friend, Pittsburgh's All-Star pitcher who has not allowed the Cardinals a run in 27 innings this season, probably will oppose the Redbirds tonight at 8 o'clock in the opener of a two-game series. Herm (3-7) Wehmeier, who has won two of three from the Pirates this season and 25 of 33 in his career, will face the fifth-place visitors.

The Phillies' two runs off Willard Schmidt came in the third. Harvey Haddix lined a single off Ken Boyer's glove, Richie Ashburn doubled off the right field screen, and Marv Blaylock's two-base smash to right-center scored both runners. Haddix stormed and raved at a "2-2" pitch Plate Umpire Babe Pinelli called a third ball with Wally Moon batting in the second. Boyer was on third, Hank Sauer on first and none out. Haddix seemed in serious trouble, but after Manager Mayo Smith of the Phillies calmed him, Harvey fanned Moon on a curve low and away. He got Bobby Del Greco on an infield fly, then struck out Hal Smith. No Redbird reached third thereafter.

"I've got my timing, my pitching rhythm is back," said Haddix happily. Stan Musial, the only Cardinal with more than one hit, singled twice to boost his average to .329, but The Man grounded into a double play with two on in the third. He lost the batting lead to Cincinnati's Ed Baey, who climbed to .333. Don Blasingame, hitless for the first time in nine games, was kept off base after getting on 26 times in the last 12 contests.

Two 300 Games In One Night at Arcade Lanes

Two 300 games were rolled last night at Arcade Lanes in University City. In the 7:30 o'clock Monday Night Scratch League, Cleo Benoit secured a perfect score in his four-game total of 937. Then in the Doubles Scratch League that followed, Gib Fischbach shot a 300 while totaling 770 for three games.

Both leagues are A.B.C.-sanctioned and both were the first perfect scores ever shot by the veteran 200-average bowlers. Fischbach shot his 300 on Alleys 1 and 2, while Benoit's game was on Alleys 7 and 8.

These were the eighth and ninth perfect games rolled at Arcade during the season that began last August. The St. Louis All-Star League will move to Arcade this year and both of last night's stars will be members. Benoit will be with the Authorized Brake team, while Fischbach will roll with Arcade Lanes.

Proposal Made That City Buy Cincinnati Club

CINCINNATI, O., July 17 (UP)—City officials today were considering several proposals concerning a possibility they buy the baseball team and two suggestions as possible solutions to the parking situation at Crosley field.

City Planner Henry Bettman proposed that the city of Cincinnati buy the Redlegs for a business enterprise. Bettman said the city should seek legislation allowing it to buy the ball club after it was pointed out that 70 per cent of the club's attendance is from out of town.

The first proposal concerning parking was a temporary solution which would use 17 sites in a nearby urban renewal project. Federal approval to use the space which would have room for 1100 cars.

The second proposal was to convert 17 acres of railroad yards north of the ball park which would handle 2000 to 3000 autos.

Texas Umpire Is Suspended for Hitting Player

DALLAS, Tex., July 17 (UP)

TEXAS LEAGUE Umpire Al Smith was on the indefinite suspension list today for allegedly taking a poke at Shreveport Pitcher Dave Newkirk in downtown Fort Worth Sunday night.

Smith was given notice of his suspension by league president Dick Butler yesterday, after reportedly trying to hit the Sport pitcher after Sunday afternoon's game, which Shreveport won from Fort Worth 3-2.

Newkirk came on in relief and got credit for the victory. Witnesses to the downtown altercation said Smith swung at Newkirk but missed. Newkirk did not try to hit Smith in retaliation, they said.

The suspension left the league with only 10 umpires, short of the usual 12, as umpire Milton Mann has been sidelined with pneumonia.

ie said the railroad property offers the best possibility of solving the parking jam.

TILLES PARK OFFER OF $350,000 URGED

Bond Group Recommends
County Seek to Buy Tract
From City.

A recommendation that $350,000 be offered St. Louis for acquisition of Tilles Park by St. Louis county was made today.

The recommendation was included in a report prepared for presentation to a joint meeting of the county Parks and Recreation Advisory Board and the Citizens' Bond Issue Public Works Advisory (Watchdog) Committee at the Courthouse in Clayton.

The report, made by a subcommittee of the two groups, acknowledged that the offer it recommended was less than the appraised value of the 58.8-acre park in Ladue.

The park was valued at $430,000 by appraisers for the city and county.

"The appraised value includes the value of improvements, which would have no value to a purchaser for subdivision purposes," the report asserted. Such a purchaser would be unlikely to pay more than $298,975, the appraised value of the land alone, the report noted.

The subcommittee recommended that the support of neighboring communities be sought for the proposal. It pointed out that the alternative is acquiring a number of smaller park sites in the same area.

LIEN DISCHARGES SPEEDED UNDER NEW TAX POLICY

Mortgage holders would be assured that discharge of federal tax liens would be issued immediately following completion of foreclosure action under a procedure announced today by the Internal Revenue Service.

The procedure would apply in those instances in which there is no value to the Government's lien interest, officials said.

They added that the procedure would result in a two-fold benefit to mortgagees: 1. It would involve less time than a foreclosure by judicial sale; 2. It would eliminate the right of the Government to redeem within one year as is the case in judicial foreclosures.

When a mortgagee wishes to foreclose on a piece of property to which a federal tax lien attaches, and he concludes that the tax lien interest has no value, an application for discharge of the lien is submitted to the district director of Internal Revenue. Within 30 days after the receipt of such application, if it is determined that the federal tax lien interest has no value, the district director will issue a document discharging the property from the lien.

MAN SAYS HE WAS ROBBED, PUSHED OFF EADS BRIDGE

A railroad worker, John N. Folmar of Gantt, Ala., was robbed of $23 and pushed off Eads Bridge into the Mississippi river yesterday by a drinking companion as the two were crossing to East St. Louis.

Folmar told police. He suffered a possible fracture of the back and a broken rib.

Folmar, 32 years old, said the man was a chance acquaintance he met in a tavern here and was known to him only as "Jack." He said they were on the south walkway when the man said, "Look at the boats down there" and pushed him over the side. Landing on his back, Folmar paddled to the Illinois side but turned away when it appeared he might be swept in by a water intake valve.

CITY AWARDS CONTRACT FOR TRIMMING 9975 TREES

A contract for trimming 9975 trees in various parts of St. Louis was awarded by the Board of Public Service today to the Wegener Tree Service Co., Warrensburg, Mo., which submitted a low bid of $27,331. The city's estimate for the work was $29,925.

The board also authorized its president, Frank J. McDevitt, to let an emergency contract for waterproofing of the cement tile roof of Kiel Auditorium, which has been leaking. Cost of the job was estimated to be $20,000.

Aug. 21 was set as the date for receiving bids for construction of a $190,000 reinforced concrete bridge to carry Loughborough avenue over the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks at the south side of Carondelet Park. The new four-lane bridge, a 1955 bond issue project, will replace the existing two-lane structure. The railroad is to pay 40 per cent of the cost.

$32,338,193 IN BUILDING IN COUNTY RURAL AREAS

Buildings begun in unincorporated areas of the county during the first six months of the year have an estimated value of $32,338,193, Edward P. Walton, deputy director of public works announced today.

This is an increase of $7,302,918 over a corresponding period last year. Walton said this year may be a record one for construction in unincorporated areas.

Commercial construction begun so far is valued at $11,814,577, an increase of $8,986,265 above a corresponding period last year. Value of homes constructed dropped $1,620,245 from last year's period, to a mark of $18,231,098.

CANDIDATE URGES CHANGES IN APPLICATION OF LAWS

Changing conditions may require changes in the application of the law, but not in the law itself, John W. Barry, candidate for the Democratic nomination for circuit attorney, said last night at a meeting of the Twenty-sixth Ward Democratic Club.

"Some of my opponents have recommended changes in the law," Barry, an attorney, said. "All we need is the use of those laws now in existence."

"I know of no person who should have been in the penitentiary that is not by reason of the inadequacy of any law," he asserted. "Nor do I know of any person who was unjustly convicted because of the inadequacy of existing laws."

MEAT DEALER FINED $1000 IN CITY COURT

Herbert Fix Found Guilty of Improper Permit and Unsanitary Conditions.

Herbert Fix, operator of the Herbe Meat Co., 3726 West Florissant avenue, was fined $1000 yesterday by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal, who found him guilty of preparing meat products without a proper city permit and of permitting unsanitary conditions at his market.

James Dunlop, chief meat inspector for the city health department, testified that in an investigation of Fix's establishment in May he found rubbish and cigarette butts on the floor, dirty walls and windows, greasy meat blocks, an overcrowded cooler and inadequate lighting. He said a follow-up visit to the place showed Fix had failed to correct the conditions as he had promised.

Fix, who lives at 4514A Atholene avenue, displayed a merchant's license for retail occupancy and said that when he had applied for a meat market permit city officials had told him he did not need one. He intends to paint the place and make other improvements, he added.

Before assessing a $500 fine on each charge, Judge Rosenthal noted that city health officials have been trying to force Fix to improve sanitary conditions in his place for several years. Fix said he would appeal.

Mail Truck Disappears.

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Joseph E. Fleming, driver of a United States mail truck, stopped by his Bronx home last night for a headache tablet. He had a bigger headache when he came out—the truck and two sacks of mail were gone.

McCLANAHAN SAYS AGAIN THAT EAGLETON IS TOO YOUNG

Donald T. McClanahan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Attorney, renewed his charges last night that his principal opponent for the nomination, Thomas F. Eagleton, is too young and inexperienced to handle the office.

Speaking at a Twelfth Ward Democratic meeting at 6819 Gravois avenue, McClanahan said Eagleton, 26 years old, would have little chance in a courtroom against Mark Henneley, to whom he is related, and Morris A. Shenker, because he is "unskilled in the ways of these clever criminal lawyers."

McClanahan, an assistant circuit attorney, said that unless the circuit attorney is a seasoned trial lawyer he would be "completely lost and confused in the rough and tumble of a serious and deadly criminal trial." The welfare and safety of St. Louisans depends upon the election of an experienced man to the office, he said.

ARMS MANPOWER THEORIES COVER UP BUDGET FACTS

deliver its hydrogen bombs, if the worst comes to the worst. But it is highly significant that Gen. Nathan Twining, Air Force Chief of Staff, has joined the Army and Navy chiefs in protesting against the proposed cuts. As one high Air Force official has remarked, "We don't want to be left all alone with SAC."

The meaning of being left all alone with SAC was spelled out in Lt. Gen. James Gavin's recent testimony before the Senate Air Power subcommittee. A hydrogen attack on the Soviet empire would result, Gavin said, in "several hundred million deaths from radioactive fallout. The deaths would 'extend well back into Western Europe,' or deep into Asia," depending on which way the wind blew." Thus, in case of future local Communist aggression, the United States would be left with the choice of killing several hundred million people, including our friends, or doing nothing at all.

The Administration's much-vaunted "new look," in short, threatens to leave this country in the hopeless situation of a policeman armed only with a weapon which, if used, will destroy not only the criminal at which it is aimed, but several city blocks round about. (Copyright, 1956, New York Herald Tribune)

HONG KONG, July 17 (AP)—Two lathe operators and a foundry worker in Red China have completed their work quotas set for 1958 and now are working on quotas set for 1959, the Peiping radio said yesterday.

BURNED OUT WANAMAKER BUILDING

Vacated old Wanamaker department store building in New York looks like a blitzed cathedral as a final stream of water is poured on the rubble. The blaze, declared officially out yesterday, lasted 33 hours. Water used to fight the fire flooded two subway lines, one of which is still out of commission. The five-story building was erected in 1862.

Look What the Man Dragged In!

Pussyfooting around in an attempt to catch pigeons this cat got an uncalled for and unwelcome bath yesterday. Engaged in its hunt, the animal apparently lost its footing and sailed into a Laclede Gas Co., cooling water well across the road from 148 Rutger street. Water in the 50-foot-wide pit is about 35 feet deep. At top, Humane Society Officer Jim Loggins swims toward the cat (circled) perched on a pillar. The ungrateful animal spat at and scratched Loggins as he rescued it from the isolated perch. At right the bedraggled animal glares balefully at the cameraman from within the Humane Society truck en route to the animal shelter on Macklind avenue.

Travel Touts Ed Gardner's Last Trip to Anywhere

By Art Buchwald

PARIS. ED GARDNER of "Duffy's Tavern," a world traveler, says he's made his last trip to Europe. "As a matter of fact," he told us in the lobby of the George V yesterday, "this is my last trip to anywhere."

ED GARDNER

"What's the trouble, Mr. Gardner?" "Travel touts, that's what the trouble is. A guy can't go anywhere today without being touted he should go somewhere else. This trip was the end. My wife and I are on the boat and a man at our table asks us where we were going first. I tell him we're going to Tangier. 'Why do you want to go to Tangier?' he says. 'All the Americans go there.' This naturally means that the place is no good. He says we should go to Algiers instead. 'Just when we're about to leave we meet an American in a taxi going out to the airport and he asks where we're going. I say to Rome. He says what for, and I say to buy some suits, and he says I should go to Madrid if I want suits. I say it's too late to change planes now and he says he knows the Air France manager at the airport and he'll fix it up for us. So instead of going to Rome we wind up in Madrid. 'I get the suits made and all I can say is my brother-in-law who is 40 pounds lighter than I am is going to be the best-dressed man in Jackson Heights."

"I DON'T SEE ANYTHING in Madrid because on arrival I ask the concierge at the hotel for a couple seats to the Madrid bullfights. He says the best bullfights are in Pamplona and he rents us a car for $30 but the car breaks down and by the time we arrive the fights are over. "As luck would have it we meet a Hollywood agent and he says it's the wrong season for Pamplona. This is the season for Cannes. So we fly to Cannes for the season. The first day we get there we're standing in the lobby waiting for a car to take us to the Bonne Auberge, one of the great restaurants of France. Suddenly we meet Art Linkletter, who asks us where we're going for dinner. We tell him the Bonne Auberge and he shakes his head. 'I know a great restaurant. It's just a little place in the mountains with seven tables and the wife cooks and the husband waits on table. It's the best place on the Riviera. You never see an American there.' So we cancel the Bonne Auberge and after a two-hour drive we arrive at the restaurant. But the wife and the husband had a fight and so when we got there he was doing the cooking and she was waiting on tables."

"THE NEXT MORNING there is maybe one or two clouds in the sky and we meet Bob Cummings, who says he hears the weather in Paris is perfect and the sun is shining all the time. So we fly to Paris where we discover it's been raining for almost a solid month. "I'm carrying an expensive American camera with me in Paris, but not having much luck with it, so I go into a camera store to buy a cheap one. The guy says why buy a cheap camera. 'A man of your discrimination,' he says, 'should have an expensive German camera.' So he sells me one for $350. "By this time I'm getting tired of being touted, so I decided that I'm going to do the touting. I know of a restaurant in Paris that has cassoulet. They make it only on Fridays and it's the best cassoulet in the world. So I invite a couple of friends to come with me. But when we get to the restaurant my friend says: 'They've got tripe on the menu. Have you ever had tripe?' I say I haven't, so he says, 'Well, you got a real treat in store for you. Cancel your cassoulet and order the tripe.'"

"THE FINAL BLOW came Sunday when I decided to go to mass at Notre Dame. I'm walking out of the hotel when I bump into a priest I know from California. He asks me where I am going and I tell him mass, and he looks very pleased. He asks which church, and I say Notre Dame, and he shakes his head. 'I know of a little church up in Montmartre that Americans don't know anything about. You can always see Notre Dame, but do me a favor, Ed, and go to this little church in Montmartre. You'll find it a very beautiful service.'"

Stepmother Problem

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

STEPMOTHERS AND STEPFATHERS have to face some real difficulties that the rest of us escape. Plenty of them will tell you so. They are among the frequent correspondents who appeal to me for help. But here is a woman who does not recognize any problems. Mrs. Y. protests: "I don't know why you try to make it appear that stepmothers are going to have so much trouble in a new home. Real parents have trouble, too. Both are parents and the step-parent, foster parent or adoptive parent has no different problems from the real parent." I wonder if Mrs. Y. has ever been a stepmother.

I have space to list only four difficulties that are unknown to the real parent.

1. You have to face it and try to live down the stereotype of the "wicked stepmother." You will encounter it not only in the books you read to your children, but in the conversation of their playmates. No matter how wrong it is, the fact is that it is a tradition.
  2. You have no background for handling the children. If you gave birth to them, you know a good deal about their ancestry, at least on your own side, and their history from the day of birth. If you acquire them when they are, say, five years old, you are ignorant of everything that happened to them in those five years so important in the formation of their personalities.
  3. You have no rights with regard to them. They will probably tell you so. Many a stepmother has turned away in tears when the youngster tells her defiantly, "You have no right to boss me around. You're not my mother."
  4. You have to make adjustments to a new husband at the same time you make adjustments to new children. Either one is a big enough job.
- Don't let anyone tell you that the stepparent has no problems. Fortunately, most of them do succeed. At any one time there are in the United States and Canada two or three million stepparents who are carrying on, and many a child owes almost everything to them. They really deserve more help than they get.

Capt. Peter Townsend He'll Cash In on Royal Romance

By Phyllis Battelle

NEW YORK, July 17 (INS) LAST autumn in London, when even the pigeons were flying at half-falter over the plight of Capt. Peter Townsend, there were a number of unsentimental rumors going around.

"I was there and I heard them. In fact, I may have started a few."

"Townsend has been offered a job by Sam Goldwyn," went one story, "and after a decent interval he'll take it."

"Pete's going to write his memoirs," said a correspondent from Brussels where Townsend was stationed before his climactic revival meeting with Princess Margaret. "I believe it will outsell the Bible."

The Aly Kahn wanted the handsome air attache for his associate in the horse-breeding business—this was a rumor.

Dozens of financial interests in the States had offered him high-toned jobs with bachelor estates in Darien and Bel-Air—these were common gossip. A motor car company and an aircraft company in England wanted him to take public relations posts.

"Can't you see, Townsend can't do anything now except go back to his post with his head hanging," said a British newspaperman. "But wait a year and see what happens. He will be well off, this fellow, well off indeed."

The British reporter turned out to be somewhat of an oracle. The tall, gaunt, soulful, martyred Capt. Townsend has announced that he is resigning his 20-year post with the Royal Air Force; and next October, a year to the month from the evening he was formally cast off from Buckingham Palace, he will start a new job for a private industry.

He will drive around the world in a British "Land Rover" auto. No one is telling what the salary will be for this publicity (more politely known as "goodwill" tour) but, considering his many real and rumored offers, the chances are he is decidedly on his way to being "well off indeed."

In a news conference to announce his plan, Peter said he will be going alone. "One gets quite used to being alone," he announced. There was no record of a catch in his voice. He confessed also that he might turn out a book about his travels, since "there will be quite a lot to write about."

It's all most gratifying, I imagine, to the more cynical members of the European set who felt, last fall, that Princess Margaret had led the hero of World War II on an embarrassing and unnecessary wild goose chase... with Townsend ending up the goose, chased back into the wilds.

THE STORY was sweet and tear-jerking on the surface, but many an old pro around London believed that Townsend would have preferred anonymity to the show-dance, and that after half a decade of operating at a Princess's whim, he was well "off the hook."

However one feels about the romance, it is now evident that the Captain is not going to suffer, since "there will be quite a lot to write about."

CARTE BLANCHE
ON his last show of the season," writes a Waterbury (Conn.) reader, "George Gobel gave an amusing definition of the phrase 'carte blanche.' He said, 'It's a French expression meaning you get a cart for Blanche, she's in no condition to drive.'"

"Actually I know 'carte blanche' means giving someone blanket permission to do what he thinks best, but I wonder if you can tell me how it came to have this meaning. If I remember my high school French, the phrase simply means 'white card.'"

Right you are, but "carte blanche" means a rather special kind of white card—specifically, one bearing only the signature of a person in authority. The bearer of such a card can, of course, fill in above the signature whatever instructions or conditions he wishes.

In America a home-grown idiom that exactly parallels "carte blanche" is coming into general use. It is, of course, "blank checks"—which you will find in such statements as "Congress today gave the President blank-check authority to proceed with his disaster relief program."

"Ever since the movie 'Cin-rama' became such a hit," writes T. C. Engle of Scarsdale, N.Y., "you see words ending in 'ama' all over the place. There are 'shopperamas,' 'wonderamas' and I even saw a new fruit store labeled 'fruiterama.' My dictionary doesn't list any such suffix. Can you tell me how it all started—and what can be done to stop the 'ama' plague?"

Well, I don't know that anything can be done to stop the "plague" as you call it. These fads run in cycles, though. As to who started the vogue, best evidence points to General Motors, which says its famous World's Fair Futurama in 1939 was the first show to carry a name with the suffix "ama."

LEGS are no longer thought of as a means of transportation. It is a wonder that they have not completely disappeared from the human race. If we could count up the number of hours we spend each year in our automobile I believe that we would be amazed.

This would be especially true of the mother of children. How many miles do you drive each month taking your son or daughter, or both, to music lessons, dancing lessons, art lessons, shopping, taking them to swim, to play tennis, delivering them at the houses of friends and picking them up later, or maybe taking their friends home?

The point I am making is that we spend much of our life behind the wheel of our car. Therefore, the way we sit while driving is of great importance to us. Modern car seats being what they are and human nature being what it is, the tendency is to slump.

Take the time you are in your car as an opportunity to improve your appearance. Sit with your hips well back against the back of the seat. Straighten your spine and keep the vertebrae stretched throughout the region of the upper back and the neck. Do not cave in at the back of the neck. Hold your abdomen in and keep your chin level. This in itself is a fine exercise.

Turn your head slowly to the left. Turn it slowly to the right and then slowly forward. Continue. If you will do this very slowly it will not be noticeable and you will feel the pull of muscles. Drop your head backward. Raise it. Continue, slowly.

Difficult Years

By Angelo Patri

THE CHILDREN who are emerging from childhood to adolescence can be a sore trial to their parents, and the only comfort that can be given is the ancient phrase, "This, too, shall pass." It will, in time, aided by parental firmness and outward calm.

dances are out of the question for you. Your turn will come."

"YES, I SUPPOSE when I'm grayhaired, it will. I want my fun now. I never have any fun. All the other girls can go. I'm the only one. Such a family. Look at Blanche's family. They let her do everything she wants to do. Only me-e-e-e."

"You poor child. Too bad for you. This is your family and you're stuck with it. You'll just have to continue to suffer, I'm afraid," and mother spoke lightly, though her feelings weighed like stone.

"That's it. You think it's funny. Well, I don't," and Priscilla emphasized her feeling with her heels on the hard floor.

In a few minutes, the telephone rang and Priscilla answered it. "Yes? This is me. Oh, no, of course not. I wouldn't think of going to that dump. My parents would be shocked to even hear about me going. Are YOU going?" and the scorn of that "YOU going" was wonderful to hear.

Mother, listening, shook her head and murmured, "Now, why must she take that note. Why couldn't she just say, 'No, I can't go,' and let it rest at that. Dear me. And I try so hard."

IN TIME, guided, pushed, shoved; hauled along through these difficult years when they struggle to go forward while one foot is still held fast in childhood, the other foot vainly trying to get a hold on the new and untried ground of maturity, youngsters get through to a more understanding attitude.

Meanwhile parents are stuck with it. This mixed-up stage of growth is common to all children, and the more calmly it is accepted, dealt with and even suffered with, the better for all concerned. In time, sooner than one thinks, the child is gone and there is a stranger in the house who too soon will leave it empty and very lonely. Just be patient.

A 'Pal' for New York Youngsters

Juvenile Crime Rate Is Increasing But Police Athletic League Helps To Keep It From Going Even Higher

By Alvin H. Goldstein

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 17.

PROBABLY the most elaborate and extensive machinery ever devised to curb juvenile crime and prevent child delinquency is in operation at top efficiency in the five-borough metropolis of New York City, with its conglomerate population of about 8,000,000.

But arrests of juvenile lawbreakers are increasing. Two out of every three crimes are perpetrated by youths under 21 years of age. About 44 per cent of the total are committed by boys of 18 or younger. Arrests of children under 16 increased 9.4 per cent to 6578 last year with complaints of unlawful behavior rising 4.2 per cent to 24,182.

It is uncertain, of course, whether these alarming statistics reflect entirely a mounting wave of delinquency or if they result in part from increased police activity and, perhaps, the aftermath of an influx of low-income families from other lands to this already crowded area. Whatever the reason, the evil has defied extermination like a poisonous weed.

The nub of both law enforcement and preventive measures directed at controlling youthful crime is the Juvenile Aid Bureau of the New York City Police Department, now in charge of Deputy Police Commissioner Aloysius J. Amella, formerly a New York Assistant District Attorney. Amella supervises the work of the famous Police Athletic League and its crime prevention program.

It is difficult for an organization or an individual to receive acclaim for "preventing something." There exists no measuring stick whereby it can be estimated how much the program of the Police Athletic League, or PAL, as it is known throughout the nation, has checked youthful wrongdoing. But most of its 100,000 members stay out of trouble.

By sponsoring an extensive chain of playgrounds, play streets, recreational centers and a summer camp for juveniles from 7 to 21 years of age, PAL has managed to divert from the trouble-seeking gangs and "clubs" thousands of boys and girls who otherwise might be roaming the streets with one of the packs of law violators.

This does not mean that every young member of PAL is an offender of even a potential offense. The organization is primarily for young residents of neighborhoods which do not provide easy access to facilities for amusement and recreation. The early offender is directed by police to PAL, however, before it is too late.

Although widely publicized as a police-sponsored organization, no department uniforms are seen at the centers. Many police officers, however, take part in the activities, which are conducted by professional civilian social service workers. Thus, the often prevalent hate and fear of "the cop" may be transformed to respect and even affection.

Funds to finance PAL's far-flung activities which embrace every conceivable type of sport, social, cultural and handicraft training and opportunities for excursions seldom offered by any organization established for more privileged youngsters, are provided by public contribution. More than 200,000 New Yorkers pay $1 annual dues for associate membership. There are substantial private donations.

This partial solution of the problem of attracting the less fortunate youth of the city from the streets of slums and interstitial areas, where wealth and poverty are close neighbors, unhappily is not the certain remedy for the progressive disease of juvenile delinquency. The "vaccination" does not always take nor do all receive it.

Police Capt. Joseph Molloy, executive officer of the Juvenile Aid Bureau, has no illusions that PAL has made unnecessary the need for swift and decisive action when law enforcement is indicated. He does not subscribe, however, to the antiquated police philosophy that there is "a lot of law in the end of a nightstick."

Crime prevention and rehabilitation of the juvenile transgressor are the chief objectives of Molloy's department. By New York State law, the JAB may use its discretion in dealing with the offender between the ages of 7 and 15, unless the crime is murder, rape or another serious felony. At 16, disposition is in the hands of a judge.

The statute has not kept the JAB from finding a method of dealing with relatively minor offenders in the troublesome 16-to-21 age group in the effort to divert from the highway they are taking to the penitentiary. In this undertaking, every police officer in the department takes part—a role he has learned through special instruction.

Every uniformed patrolman in the city carries Juvenile Aid Bureau Form No. 2 which he issues in place of making a formal "booking" of any one under 21 whose actions might normally justify arrest or indicate "delinquency." These are filed in the JBA office and circulated in the city police precincts.

One of a staff of 200 police officers, all trained in the social science and 127 with college degrees, is assigned to investigate the case. A cause for the dereliction is sought. Whether it is a problem of mentality, environment, poverty or for whatever reason, remedial action is taken.

This may range, depending on circumstances, from a talk with parents, reference of the case to PAL, civilian social agencies or, in extreme cases, other misconduct, especially when the fleet is in.

Molloy said that most juvenile crimes committed by 15-year-olds or younger are of a "minor" character such as truancy, petty theft, vandalism and other indiscretions somewhat more serious than mischief-making. He thought that 24,000 JAB No. 2 cards issued in a year as in 1955, at least 16,000 were put back on the track of lawful living.

Of the other 8000, only about 3000 move on in serious youthful crime although the balance repeated relatively trivial offenses accumulating enough JAB-2 cards to alert police to their potential danger. If the continued "repeater" fails to respond to social guidance, he becomes a problem for the court.

No one connected with law enforcement in New York would contend that juvenile delinquency is fully controlled or on the wane. Gangs of unbridled youths still meet in brutal combat on secret battlefields, engaging in the court. Commissioner Amella said that it had been found rarely necessary to go to court. That action is taken only when it is evident the culprit should be institutionalized for his own good and that of the community.

In addition to these activities, the police precincts of varying size have a "juvenile-youth patrolman" assigned exclusively to keep a watchful and, if possible, friendly eye, on the boys or girls whose names are listed in the confidential file as delinquents or border-line cases. They co-operate with a representative of the Civilian Youth Councils, citizen-paid social workers who "walk the same beat."

In addition, the Detective Division has six squads of varying size patrolling the "strategic areas" in the city where youthful miscreants may meet or congregate. They range from Greenwich Village through Times Square to Harlem, watching for signs of rowdiness, robbery or Leaky Valves. SCATTERED about the house plumbing system are some little items called valves and the purpose of these valves is to close off the flow of water to the system at such times as is necessary.

Valves aren't used much and people are likely to forget they exist. If you forget about them long enough they may start to leak around the stem right under the handle and if left alone this leak can do a good deal of damage.

You are likely to find two types of valves in the plumbing system. One is called a globe valve and the other is a gate valve. They look pretty much alike on the outside but there is a difference and one difference is that with a gate valve it's usually necessary to close off the supply in the line at some distant valve just the same.

Once this is done you can go to work. First thing to do is unscrew the packing nut that sits on top of the valve and is under the handle. Remove the old wicking and then wind about the same amount of new wicking around the valve stem right under the nut. Be sure you wind the wicking around the valve stem in the same direction as the packing nut is turned to tighten. If you don't, when you start to tighten the nut it will unwind the wicking.

Once the wicking is in place replace the packing nut and make it as tight as you can and still allow the valve stem to turn easily. If you run the nut on too tight you'll never be able to move the handle of the valve but if it's too loose water will leak out around the nut.

While you're at it, check the other valves in the system to be sure that they operate easily. If they don't, loosen the packing nut a bit—until the handle of the valve can be turned easily

When Mr. Muzzy sorted his hand he got the king of diamonds mixed in with his hearts. As it happened, this error served him very well. Mrs. Keen opened the five of diamonds and Mrs. Muzzy played the jack, believing it to be the only diamond he had.

Miss Brash, who had visions of losing the first five tricks, was delighted to win with her queen. Wouldn't you have done the same?

At trick two she led the jack of clubs and let it ride. Mr. Muzzy won with the king and it was at this point that he noticed he had the king of diamonds.

In any case, Mr. Muzzy banged down the king of diamonds and Mrs. Keen overtook with the ace and ran three more tricks in the suit to defeat the contract.

When there are no important cards on the board, it is almost always best to play third hand high to your partner's lead against a no trump contract.

However, the setup of the diamond suit in this particular deal represented an exception. If Mr. Muzzy had played the king at trick one, Miss Brash would have been guided in the only play for her contract.

On the jack of diamonds return at trick two she would have played the nine. If Mrs. Keen then overtook with the ace, the queen would be set up. If she did not overtake, the jack would hold, but diamonds could not be continued because Mr. Muzzy would be out of the suit.

On this line of play Miss Brash would have been able to win at least three clubs, two hearts and four spades for game.

In cold blood boys who have refused to join them, have laid and injured or killed strangers, either for thrill or for profit. Burglaries and robberies are planned and executed by some of them. Many of the guilty have been arrested and punished; others have gone undetected.

No statistics can reveal what the police department program, PAL and all, has accomplished in attempting to halt this horrifying trend. Eminent public and private social science authorities in New York have estimated that about 50 per cent of known juvenile delinquents have been "rehabilitated." The accuracy of that estimate cannot be established, but with PAL and other understanding co-operation, at least they have a chance.

AMONG St. Louisans vacationing in the West are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Johnson, 38 Portland place, and their daughter, Irene, who are at their cottage at Pebble Beach, Calif. With them are Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Mrs. Eloise Polk Bengtson, and Mrs. Bengtson's young son, Samuel Johnson Bengtson. They will be away until soon after Labor day.

Mrs. Bengtson, accompanied by her aunt, Miss Eugenia Wells, and her son will sail Sept. 14 on the United States for a concert tour of Europe. She will open the music season in Amsterdam Sept. 28, as piano soloist with the Concertgebouw. They expect to return to this country in time for the Christmas holidays.

Another St. Louisan vacationing in California is Mrs. J. Raymond Dyer, 4503 McPherson avenue, who is visiting her mother, Mrs. Frederick T. Russell, in San Rafael. She will return to St. Louis at the end of the month. Her daughter, Miss Nancy Dyer, is spending part of the summer doing social service work in San Salvador, Mexico, under the auspices of the American Friends Service Committee. Her father and her brother, H. Chouteau Dyer II, will join her next month to tour southern Mexico. She will be a junior at Bryn Mawr College in the fall. Her brother, a senior at Harvard College, is on a R.O.T.C. cruise in Europe at the present time.

Miss Carola Glasgow, 4933 McPherson avenue, flew Sunday to New York, where she stopped briefly on her way to Woods Hole, Mass., on Cape Cod. Miss Glasgow will spend the rest of the summer there at the Breakwater. Also flying to New York Sunday were Dr. M. Hayward Post, 625 South Skinner boulevard, and his son, Martin H. Post III. They went from New York to Pleasant Valley, Conn., to join Mrs. Post at their summer home, Tuxis, for a short vacation. Mrs. Post, who departed last month, will remain throughout the season.

Miss Griffin Bride

Of James S. Peevey

MISS SALLY LOUISE GRIFFIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Griffin, 24 Ellsworth lane, Ladue, and James Scranston Peevey were married the evening of July 8 at Clayton Methodist Church by the Rev. Delvis Roberts. White flowers decorated both the church and the ballroom of the Gatesworth Hotel for the reception afterward.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore white tulle over taffeta. Lace outlined the low neckline, edged the short sleeves and was used as inserts on the full ballerina skirt. A crown of pearls and sequins secured her fingertip veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations and orchids.

Miss Nancy Wright served as maid of honor in a white dress worn over aqua taffeta with which she carried a bouquet of white carnations and pink roses. Mrs. William Symank of Austin, Tex., the bridesmaid, was similarly dressed.

Dr. Dall Rike Peevey, who with Mrs. Peevey came from Austin for the wedding, was best man. Mr. Symank and Dennis Griffin, the bride's brother, were ushers.

The newly married couple will live in Austin. The bride attended Washington University School of Retailing where she became a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Peevey is a graduate of the University of Texas School of Business. His fraternal ties are Phi Kappa Sigma, social, and Delta Sigma Pi, business honorary. He served four years in the Air Force.

Martha Carr's

OPINION

Dear Martha:

I HAVE been married over three years and have had one constant problem during that time. My husband is a fine person up to one point. He absolutely refuses to extend any sort of courtesies to women we know or meet.

Readers are requested to keep their letters short when writing to Martha Carr. For a personal reply include a self-addressed stamped envelope with the letter you send to Martha Carr, in care of the Post-Dispatch. Letters of a medical or legal nature cannot be answered.

He never stands when a woman enters the room, never tips his hat, never offers his seat to a woman, or anything like that. He has said many times that women stopped extending courtesies to men years ago. He also says that since we women argued so long for "equal rights" we shouldn't expect men to act as they did back in the horse-and-buggy days. His final argument is that if women change their customs and ideas why can't men do the same. I can understand his reasoning to an extent, but word is going around among my women friends that he is downright rude. He doesn't mean to hurt anyone, but he just refuses to observe the customary courtesies. He says it's time men changed and stopped acting like puppets. Is there anything you can say or advise about this?

PERPLEXED.

There's no doubt, of course, that in our more casual way of life the chivalry of yesterday is out of place and intelligent women no longer insist on mid-Victorian polish. But you can tell your husband that women, with their desire for equality in the business and professional world and their wishes for a partnership in marriage rather than a master-slave relationship, haven't changed any more than the men have. When did you last see a man give up his seat on a bus to a woman? In fact, one of the husky brethren probably raced a woman to the last vacancy. But the men are just as dog-tired at the end of the day as the women are, so there's little complaint on that score. However, graciousness and courtesy, in both men and women, will never really go out of style. Men, for all their grumbling, like the masculine prerogative of helping a "helpless" female, and a wise woman, well able to take care of herself, will accept those courtesies gracefully. She also will try to maintain the kind of home atmosphere where thoughtfulness and concern for one another engender courtesy. It may be too late to change your husband now. Without nagging, you can discuss it with him and point out that even though times have changed, as he says, his actions are embarrassing to you. Even if he's longing for the masculine revolution, until it comes he owes you respect and ordinary politeness.

Dear Martha:

I USED TO GO OUT with a boy where I worked and I would brag about my other dates. He never said anything, then one day he dropped me. My parents thought a lot of him. He is a wonderful fellow. My problem is this: Will it be all right to try to get him back? I know how much he means to me. He is dependable and a perfect gentleman, does not drink or smoke. Will it seem bold if I invite him to our house?

PUZZLED.

It depends on whether he has found himself another girl friend. If he isn't going steady, and if you and he were still on amicable terms when he dropped out of the picture, I see nothing wrong with inviting him over for a family dinner or, perhaps, asking him along with another couple to spend the evening at your home. But whether your bragging about other beaux was the cause of the break-up or not, it's a good lesson to learn. A smart girl without stooping to insincere flattery, will give all her attention to her date of the moment, or at least to the party of friends around her, and keep the conversation about outsiders to a minimum.

Are you planning a stork shower for a mother-to-be? Martha Carr's free leaflet will suggest games and refreshments. Be sure to include a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Teen-Age Answers

By Ruth Millett

IN one southern city, representatives from all the high schools were called together to see if the children, themselves, could figure out what to do about juvenile vandalism.

They had ready answers to the problem, but it was disappointing to see that about all they did was shift the blame from the teen-agers to the parents.

One of their suggestions was that parents be made to pay for the damage their children do to property.

It didn't occur to any of these teen-agers that if a boy is old enough to be in high school and old enough to earn the money to pay for any malicious damage he might do.

No, they didn't think of that. "Let pop pay," was their considered opinion.

The teen-age panel also suggested that community recreation centers by teen-agers. In other words, the children were saying that it was the community's responsibility to keep teen-agers amused at all times. They were saying that if they were not amused, some of them would naturally start shooting out automobile windshields and picture windows with air rifles—just for kicks.

They didn't suggest that teen-agers might use some of their spare time to do something constructive. They just wanted their places of amusement made more enticing.

And so their suggestions went, most of them based on the child-like belief that if a teen-ager gets into trouble it is either the fault of his parents or the community.

They didn't say just when they thought a teen-ager should assume the responsibility for his own actions.

It looked mighty like the young people thought they should have grown-up freedom without grown-up responsibilities.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

LETTER tells me: "As a child, I was taught to address my elders as Mr. and Mrs., or in the case of close friends of our family, as Aunt and Uncle. I have brought my children up to do the same. Several of their friends and other youngsters in our apartment house are permitted to call adult neighbors by their first names. This practice irks me, and I have told these youngsters and some of their mothers that I wish to be called Mrs. Smith. Yet the children persist in using my first name. Does proper conduct demand that I let this situation continue, or may I just ignore the children when they don't address me as I have requested, even in front of their mothers? I don't want to be rude to the children, but I feel very strongly about this and will appreciate any advice you can give me."

I agree with you completely, and I think you should make every effort to check it. No really well-brought-up child would ever dream of calling a grown person by first name.

Five Ways to Do It Redesigning Monotonous Walls

By Elizabeth Hillyer

FIVE WAYS TO RELIEVE THAT BOXED-IN IMPRESSION.

FOUR flat walls make a room look like a box, and living in it can too easily give the feeling of being shut up in a box.

Relieving that boxed-in impression is a very important part of decorating a room. Since the plain walled room lacks architectural interest, it must be given some with the redesign of a wall or two. Here are five ways to do it.

Fabric hung ceiling high and floor length does far more than curtain the windows. Its folds undulate in shapes very different from a flat surface, and there's the contrast of softness with the hard plaster. Just don't make the mistake of stopping short with treating the windows. Stretch the drapery wall wide or nearly so if a change of pace is needed on a side of the box.

A SPECIAL favorite today is the single wood wall in the plaster walled room. The warmth and graining of the natural wood provides beauty that needs almost no further decoration, and a wood wall is easier to come by than most people think. It can be made of choice wood paneling or of plywood with handsome veneers or it can even be paper thin slices of wood with backing which goes on the wall almost as easily as wallpaper.

Since the effect of depth for a wall helps so much to break up four-wall flatness, scenic wallpapers, and those which have even more of an architectural effect are excellent, and more and more of them are seen. The eye can believe it looks into a vista deep in the distance, and this has the added value of making the room look larger.

SCREENS of any kind provide depth and decoration, especially today's favorite lowered screens which heighten the effect with the play of light and shadow on the many angled surfaces.

Then there is always the fascinating wall that can be created with furniture and shelves. Useful as they are for storage and display, use the shelves and cabinets for far more than that—plan them to mean as much to the atmosphere of the room as to its practicality. High, wide, and handsome, they are decorative and architectural relief from monotony that makes in a different room.

Send today for Elizabeth Hillyer's booklet "What's Wrong With That Room?"—a quick check list of room faults and how to correct them—a booklet that contains so much information it's a short-course in practical decorating. For your copy, address Miss Hillyer at the Post-Dispatch and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and 15 cents with your request.

Fine Dancer Shocked by Fads of '56

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.

I HAD a letter the other day from Maria-Theresa, a very fine dancer in the classic tradition and a student of Isadora Duncan. Many of my young readers may not have known of Isadora Duncan, but she was a great dancer and had a desire to see American youth dance in a way that she felt was an expression of beauty and gave freedom to the soul.

Maria-Theresa is shocked by the developments at the present time and would give a great deal to see producers revive an interest in the classic dance. There is much truth in what she says, and I mention it here because as a nation we are likely to take up the fads of the moment.

These fads fade quickly, but the enduring things are the really beautiful developments, such as those Isadora Duncan was able to create in her day and perhaps, in a different way, Martha Graham creates today.

IT WAS very pleasant, indeed, to see the sun come out Saturday morning. So I started taking my guests for a sight-seeing tour, hoping that it would be really pleasant for swimming by the time we got back.

We have had so many rainy weekends this year that it really must be hard on people who can get to the country only on Saturdays and Sundays, just as it must be on people running summer resorts and summer attractions of different kinds.

New Fall Shade

A new deep shade of purple blue that is called iris is among the new hues appearing for early fall. Clare Potter likes this tone, regarding it as an excellent one to blend with black or brown or for an entire costume. The shade is especially attractive in lightweight woolen tweeds for coats that have narrow lines and panel back. Wool jersey is used with the tweed for complete ensembles.

Elegant Touch for Picnic

By Clarissa Start

PICNICS have come in for a lot of attention this year. There's been the movie and the song. Also a lot of suggested innovations which I view with alarm. Some subversive force seems to be tampering with the time-honored institution of the picnic, and as usual when you try to improve on a perfectly good, simple idea, they are gumming it up for sure.

Clarissa Start.

Take, for example, the feature in a recent picture magazine promoting "Picnics in Elegant Style." Its thesis is that "a picnic staged with care can be an occasion of ease and grace." Instead of paper plates and cups, they suggest china and glassware. Instead of plastic knives and forks, stainless steel. Instead of wieners and potato salad and tomatoes au naturel, they propose chilled chicken avocado soup, ham baked in a crust, a casserole of lentils, a tossed romaine salad, chilled wine, and melon for dessert.

This is a picnic?

ANOTHER VARIATION on the picnic theme suggests liver pate canapés and roast squab. Still another menu, dreamed up by a food editor, starts with shrimp cocktail, and she goes a step further in advocating that your really good china, linens, and silverware be taken along to give the picnic further "elegance."

There are two files I would like to toss in the oilment at this juncture, just to get us back in the old-fashioned picnic mood. The first is: who wants elegance on a picnic? The second is: who the heck is going to do all the work entailed in cleaning shrimp, baking ham in a crust, roasting squab, not to mention the careful washing of good china, polishing of silver, the later laundry of the cloth napkins, and the general counting, packing and transportation of all these dining room dainties to the wilderness?

I WOULD LIKE to propose that we little women form a Preservation of the Old-Fashioned Picnic society and that we do not permit these photographers and food editors to destroy the last retreat of the harassed housewife. All of us would pledge ourselves to use only paper plates and plastic cutlery when we take to the woods, the parks, the beaches. (Theoretically, plastic knives and forks can be washed and used again but actually, and conveniently, they also can be lost.) No silverware, no china, no linens, no fuss, no mess, no clean-up.

For our picnic menu we would serve only traditional and time-honored fare, as follows:

Wieners—roasted on sticks or boiled in tin can of water.

Potato salad—made the night before.

Buns—out of a cellophane bag.

Tomatoes—in the raw, well, maybe with salt.

Dessert—store bought cookies and fresh fruit.

Beverages—ready-mix lemonade or anything out of a bottle.

And that, I'm sure all women will agree, would be a picnic worth singing about.

Uncle Ray's Column
By Ramon Coffman

LATER in his African journey, Mungo Park reached a country called Ludamar. This place was just south of the Sahara Desert, and its people were Moors. The king was named Ali.

Soldiers of Ali soon appeared and made the three travelers prisoners. Park was placed in a hut, and was forced to wait to see what would be his fate. He knew that Major Houghton had met death in this very district.

A wild hog was placed in the hut, and Park was told to kill it for food. Since the Moors followed the Mohammedan faith, they never ate pork. Park feared that they were setting a trap for him, and that he might be punished if he killed the hog and ate its flesh. So he let the animal alone, and for several days it was, in a sense, a fellow prisoner.

Food was supplied to Mungo Park, but only in small amounts. Possibly he would have starved if it had not been for gifts of milk and other food which were taken to him by servants of Fatima, the chief wife of Ali.

Ali took an interest in the compass which the prisoner showed him. This Moslem chief could not understand why the compass needle always pointed the same way.

For months, Mungo Park was kept a prisoner of the Moors. Then came a war, and he asked the king for his freedom. Ali would not grant the request, but Fatima, his wife, took steps to provide more comfort for the prisoner. He was given back most of his clothing, and his horse as well.

Park found himself one day a member of a throng which was "flying in fear of the enemy." On this flight, he was able to escape from the Moors, and headed eastward. His servant, Johnson, also escaped, but the Negro boy, Delina, had been taken into Ali's household as a personal slave.
